Military Officials Plan Quemoy Defense

See Khrushchev's Acceptance Of Test Ban Talks As Positive Step

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev's "yes, but" acceptance of the Western proposal to start negotiating an atomic test ban was regarded by Western diplomats in Moscow Saturday as a positive step toward final solution of the nuclear problem.

The Soviet Premier agreed to start talks Oct. 31. He suggested Geneva as the site. He added in effect, however, that Russia would make no guarantee it would not resume its own tests.

On this score, Khrushchev pointed to what he called Western delays in halting tests. He also indicated Russia would be free to resume testing if the talks showed signs of dragging.

But few Western diplomats felt the Soviet Union would put this threat into effect.

"Agreement on nuclear tests, according to all available evidence so far, is still one of the (Russia's) main projects," one diplomat said. The general opinion seems to be that negotiations will start on schedule unless there is a basic change in Soviet policy in the meantime.

It is generally accepted there has been a hardening of Soviet policy in its relations with the West over the past month. But few believe this will affect Khrushchev's repeatedly professed desire for a ban on nuclear tests and a release from the tremendous economic burden such tests entail.

The question of Communist China's role in any universal ban on nuclear tests, however, is a thorny problem that remains to be worked out.

Technical experts agreed at the Geneva meeting on ways to detect nuclear tests that widely scattered control posts are necessary. They indicated China's vast territory must be included in any control plan.

This could provide a wedge to renew the Soviet demand for Communist China's participation in the plan. This issue could doom the talks to failure.

Khrushchev objected to all conditions laid down by President Eisenhower in his nuclear ban proposal, but this had been expected in diplomatic circles here.

Khrushchev's major departure from the U.S.-British proposals was that the parties agree to a nuclear ban "by all states for all time." The West proposes a one-year ban, limited to the countries now possessing nuclear weapons.

Russian Will Fly Into Space Within Year, Experts Say

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Within perhaps a year, a Russian will fly into space and come home again, space experts predicted Saturday.

Several Western scientists cited a minimum timetable of a year for Russia to send a man orbiting around the earth in a recoverable satellite or at least give him a brief rocket high jump for a few hundred miles into space.

Making the first human leap into space seems to be the main Soviet target, delegates said at the close of the General Assembly of the International Astronautical Federation.

But they don't put it past the Russians to try to grab off the further glory of making the first exploration of the moon and embarrass the United States again.

"I'm flabbergasted they haven't done it yet," said Dr. Kurt Stehling of the Naval Research Laboratory, Washington, D.C.

"We gathered the definite impression here that the Russians want to be first to the moon," said Dr. August Frederick Staats, of Bremen, president of the German Rocket Society.

"The Russians said it wasn't true that they had already tried once and failed," Staats continued.

"We urged them not to try to hit the moon but just to circle it. This is in line with the idea no one should contaminate the moon with anything until it can first be learned whether any kind of life exists there naturally."

"The Russians agreed this was a good idea, but if Soviet Premier Khrushchev told them to land a rocket on the moon—because that might have bigger propaganda value," Staats said.

A Thought For Labor Day —

Labor Day rolls around again and we pay just tribute to the workingman's vital contribution to the rich cornucopia of American life. Yet—headlines from the nation's capital tell us all is not serene in the House of Labor. Its leaders might recall U. S. Grant's succinct comment: "Labor disgraces no man; unfortunately you occasionally find men disgrace labor."

Labor Day Weekend Fatalities Mount, Slower Than Estimated

Many Labor Day holiday travelers were settled at vacation spots late Saturday night but others still were traveling the highways toward the last vacation of the summer.

For many it will be the last holiday ever.

But as the second 24-hour period began, the traffic death toll for the three-day vacation mounted more slowly than the grim prediction of 420 deaths made by the National Safety Council.

A council spokesman said: "While the death toll is still below the predicted rate, it's picking up enough to be of grave concern."

Ninety-five deaths were reported in the three major categories during the first 24 hours of the Labor Day weekend in 1957. The figure stood at 73 for a comparable period this holiday.

Four persons died in the crash of a light plane taking off from an estate southwest of Pittsburgh. The crash occurred during a picnic outing.

In Ohio, two Massachusetts brothers drowned—one attempting to save the other—in a swimming hole after a picnic party near Hiesport.

The current accident fatality survey began at 6 p.m. Friday and continues until midnight Monday—a period of 78 hours.

The three-day Labor Day weekend in 1957 took 445 lives in traffic. With 95 drownings and 96 deaths in miscellaneous accidents, the over all death toll was 636.

The record death toll, in 1951, was only 22 higher than last year's — 658. The record Labor Day weekend traffic toll of 461 also was set in 1951.

Normally on a late summer nonholiday weekend, the traffic death toll is between 300 and 350. In a nonholiday weekend test survey Aug. 15-18, the Associated Press reported 300 traffic deaths.

Ike's 'Go Slow On Integration' May Hurt GOP Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower apparently has added to the burden of Republican congressional candidates in 10 critical states with his go-slower views on racial integration.

Northern Democrats already have begun to picture Eisenhower as reluctant to cooperate in the fight on segregation because of his news conference remark Wednesday that he might have told friends privately he felt there ought to be slower integration in the schools.

These Democrats can be expected to give wide circulation in critical campaign areas such as New York, Michigan and California to the assertion of Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, that Eisenhower's statement was "incredible."

In these and other states where the Negro vote is regarded as important, if not actually critical, Eisenhower's statement is likely to be cited as indicating the Republican top command is only going through the motions on the integration issue.

In meeting this charge, Republican candidates thus far have only what many of them regard as an unsatisfactory explanation by White House press secretary James C. Hagerty. Hagerty insisted there is no divergence between the President's opinion and the Justice Department's action in the Little Rock case in the Supreme Court.

NEW YORK (AP)—Some people have long suspected that some television quiz shows exert controls enabling contestants who capture the public fancy to win fabulous prizes.

Now a couple of disgruntled contestants on a couple of programs have lighted matches in television's gunpowder factory. People are running, yelling, pointing, hiding. Some deny that a match has been lighted. Others are trying to scratch matches themselves.

In the midst of the confusion New York Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan, who is investigating at least four quiz shows as the result of complaints, reports that nothing has been uncovered thus far to warrant grand jury action.

The public's notion of a fix is a good deal different from that of the producers of some quiz shows.

NEW YORK (AP)—A man who escaped last month from Menard State Penitentiary has been recaptured by St. Louis police, the prison announced Saturday.

Warden Ross V. Randolph said Richard Woolsey, 46, of Jerseyville, was seized Friday night for questioning about a burglary. Woolsey at first denied he was an escapee from Menard, the warden said.

He fled July 24 from a work gang on the prison farm. Guards said Woolsey slipped away after he was allowed to sit under a tree when he complained of illness. Woolsey was sentenced to one year to life for burglary and larceny in 1938.

American Jet Fighters En Route To Formosa To Back Up 7th Fleet

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Red China's guns kept up their fitful pounding of Nationalist island outposts Sunday. But the volume of fire seemed to be dropping in the nine-day-old bombardment.

Fresh American jet fighters were en route to Formosa to back up the reinforced U. S. 7th Fleet, now numbering nearly 60 ships. And high U.S. and Nationalist Chinese military men conferred here on the defense of Quemoy.

Nationalist defense ministry spokesman said Little Quemoy was the No. 1 target of the Sunday shelling. But the firing was light and sporadic. The spokesmen said the Reds loosed only about 500 shells in all Saturday, by far the smallest attack since the record Aug. 23 bombardment, rated at 41,000 shells.

The count, from midnight to dawn Sunday was only 154.

However, radio Peiping reiterated Red China is determined to "liberate Formosa and the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu" despite a warning by Secretary of State Dulles Aug. 23 that any move to seize Quemoy or Matsu could be a threat to peace.

The concentration of Communist fire on Quemoy and nearby islands in Amoy Bay has convinced most U.S. military experts in Taipei that a Communist landing attempt is being prepared. The Red Chinese Army's Fukien command has broadcast a surrender or ultimatum to the Nationalist defenders of Quemoy.

If an invasion is tried it could lead to a war whose extent could not be foreseen.

The United States is not committed to help defend the little offshore islands. But President Eisenhower has authority from Congress to order American forces into action there if he regards that as necessary to the defense of Formosa.

U.S. Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker and four-star Gen. Isaac D. White, Commander of U.S. Army forces in the Pacific, flew into Formosa in separate planes.

Red China Intends To Start Far East War, Officials Claim

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials said Saturday Red China apparently is trying to provoke the United States into a Far East war and, if that fails, start one anyway.

With President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and other top officials out of town over the Labor Day weekend, leaders still in Washington braced for a possibly imminent Communist assault in Formosa Strait.

The U.S. 7th Fleet patrolling the Strait is being reinforced again. The Pentagon disclosed Saturday a squadron of jet fighters and some cargo planes are on their way to the area.

The fleet numbers nearly 60 warships now, having been augmented already by an additional carrier and heavy cruiser. It starts joint air-sea maneuvers next week with the Nationalist Chinese forces.

If the Red Chinese launch an attack on Quemoy, Matsu or other Nationalist offshore island, Eisenhower would be faced with this momentous decision: Should he order these U.S. forces into combat? Here, as viewed by the State Department, were some of the provocations:

A slowly hardening Red China line, evidenced by get-tough propaganda and subversion throughout the Far East and a breakoff in trade with Japan.

Recent buildup of Red air and troop strength opposite Quemoy and Matsu, and unprecedented week-long shelling of these island outposts.

What amounts to a Bronx cheer—Peiping's derisive taunts in reaction to repeated U.S. warnings that an attack on the offshore islands would be treated as a general threat to Far East peace.

Eisenhower and Dulles have laid down a policy of patient, long-suffering response to what they call Red China's militarism and aggressive expansionism. But officials said Eisenhower has decided to draw the line somewhere—and it may or may not be at Quemoy and Matsu.

The static came on the heels of a Navy announcement in Washington Friday that the Vanguard which attempted to launch the first 2½-pound satellite last May 27 traveled 7,500 miles into the south Atlantic instead of going into orbit.

Two five-stage Army research rockets fired earlier appeared to function normally, but trouble developed on the Snark flight.

The Snark, the free world's only test operational intercontinental-range missile, splashed into the ocean just off the cape seven hours after launching.

The Air Force announced that the missile's flight direction was turned around after the technical troubles were spotted. The Snark reportedly was aimed at an impact area 6,000 miles across the Atlantic near Ascension Island.

The research missiles, made up of conventional small, solid-fuel Army rockets, were fired as part of a probe of the earth's atmosphere being conducted by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

WINKING SPUTNIK? — AMSTERDAM (AP)—A winking Sputnik is being considered by Soviet scientists.

It would blink a light off and on to make it easier to photograph and to track, said Dr. K. P. Ogrodnikov in a report Saturday to the International Astronautical Federation.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Squirrel hunting knocked out Paul Havens' plane Friday.

The 35-year-old Logansport pilot turned back for an emergency landing at St. Joseph County Airport after a bullet punctured the fuel tank of his single-engine plane. Forty gallons of gasoline was gushing out four feet from his head when Havens landed, with the ignition turned off.

Sheriff's deputies traced down Frederick Morrow, 12, who reported he shot missed a squirrel in a tree, and the 22-caliber rifle bullet struck the plane instead.

"I heard the engine sputter," the boy said.

Search In Field For Robbery Loot Yields Nothing

ALEDO, Ill. (AP) — A search for $1,800 in bank robbery loot, supposedly hidden in a cornfield, turned up nothing Saturday.

The row-by-row hunt by FBI agents, state police and Mercer County deputy sheriffs was made after Wilbur Floyd Hilliard, 19-year-old ex-paratrooper, was seized in his Oswego home and charged with three bank robberies.

The FBI said Hilliard admitted robbing state banks in Viola, Joy and Nauvoo of more than $11,000 and related he hid $1,800, wrapped in a suede jacket, in the cornfield after a $2,947 holdup of the Farmers State Bank in Viola Tuesday.

Also charged with bank robbery was Hilliard's uncle, Walter M. Chase Jr., 29, who was seized in his Aurora home Friday, several hours after Hilliard named him as his partner in the holdups. Both men are held under bonds of $20,000.

Agents said the men robbed, besides the Viola bank, the State Bank of Joy where $2,761 was taken April 26, and the State Bank of Nauvoo where the loot May 27 was $5,626.

AN IMPORTANT DRAWING FOR JACKSONVILLE

The drawing took place after announcement was made that Jacksonville has been chosen as a representative American community to participate in a national opinion panel on 1959 automobiles. This panel will help provide an answer from one important segment of the public regarding today's automobiles and how well they suit the tastes and requirements of American automobile buyers.

Municipal Airport Activities

Major James R. Wood of Ft. Benning, Ga., arrived at Jacksonville Municipal last Saturday. Major Wood was flying a DeHavilland Otter aircraft. After visiting friends and relatives in Mt. Sterling, the return trip to Ft. Benning was made on Sunday.

Several persons from the Jacksonville area attended the St. Louis air tour last Sunday and Monday at Lambert Field. On Sunday the group toured the St. Louis traffic control center where the latest type of radar control methods were shown along with several types of radar control. On Monday the group toured McDonnell Aircraft Co.

Those attending from this area were: Mr. and Mrs. Royal Thomas of Chandierville flying a Cessna 120; Byron Smith accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Allen Smith flying a Stinson station wagon; Mr. and Mrs. Loren Moody accompanied by Fire Chief and Mrs. Howard Reynolds flying in Mr. Moody's Navion; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rees accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ebrey flying in Rees' Stinson; Phil Clary and Merle Swain flying Clary's Cessna 120.

Roger Mohrman and Dean Searles of Camp Point, Ill., flew to Indianapolis, Ind. Wednesday and returned Thursday. The flight was made in the Beyerly Airlines Cessna 140. Roger is a recent graduate of the private pilot course at Beyerly Airlines.

This week's congratulations goes to Robert Kleinlein of Mt. Sterling, Mo. Both Kleinlein and King received their private pilot licenses this week from CAA Pilot Examiner Carmen P. Burgard. The panel member will travel on an all expense paid trip to Detroit, Mich., on Oct. 8th and 9th for a two day consumer panel conference, to visit major automobile manufacturers and meet Henry Ford II and Ford Motor Company executives. He will receive a full opportunity to give his frank and confidential opinions about today's automobiles and register his likes and dislikes.

Upon returning home panel member will be loaned a 1959 Ford car to drive and report upon during a 30 day period.

Selection requirements are that the panel member be chosen from one of the local service clubs. At a meeting Aug. 29 Mayor DuBois in an impartial drawing by lot drew the Lions Club. At a later date representatives of the Lions Club will draw the final panel member to represent Jacksonville at the Detroit conference.

Excluded from the drawing are all employees or owners of retail new or used automobile or truck dealerships or employees of automobile manufacturers.

The government moved to dampen pump-priming of the housing industry, which rebounded sharply this spring and summer. The Federal National Mortgage Assn. said it will pay less than par for mortgages. This will slow the flow of money for G. I. and F. H. A. mortgages.

A matter for concern is the possibility of a strike in the auto industry. All this week wildcat strikes dotted the auto scene as work got underway on 1959 models. At times more than 12,000 workers were idle.

Red China's activities in the Formosa Strait brought modest precautionary buying of commodities, particularly grain futures. Briefly over the business scene: Most optimistic quote of the week came from Thomas Gies, University of Michigan professor and former economist of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City. He said, "it appears very likely that the economy will attain record levels by the last quarter of 1958."

Things can change department for the first time, two of England's Big Five banks will make personal loans on a steady job and an honest face.

Off the wagon: The Saturday Evening Post decided to accept liquor advertising. What's your average? That of the bowling industry keeps going up. B. E. Benninger, president of Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. says bowling this season will represent an outlay of one billion dollars.

Honest Abe District Scouts Plan Rally At Lake Cabin Sept. 13

Honest Abe Boy Scout District held its monthly meeting at Beardstown at the Legion Hall. About 40 Scouts heard the reports of the operating committee chairmen and plans for the coming months.

A Rally Day has been planned by the Camping and Activities Committee, according to Chairman Paul Smith. It will be held at the Scout Cabin on Lake Jackson on Saturday, September 13, for boys from all over the District who want to be Scouts. Any boy 14 years of age or older is welcome to attend. Smith said such boys should contact any Scout or Scoutmaster or come with their dads.

The activities will start about 9 a. m. Most of the 21 troops in the district will attend, with many units planning to camp out Friday night and remain all day Saturday. Members of the Camping committee will arrange transportation home for the visitors.

To Form More Troops
The Organization and Extension committee of the district has organized eight new units since January 1, and is seeking to organize four troops, three packs and one Explorer post before the year is over. Two institutions in Jacksonville have requested help in organization, and several other groups in the district have indicated a desire to sponsor Scout units. This year boy membership exceeded 1100 registered Cubs, Scouts and Explorers, for the first time, with 405 of this figure being Boy Scouts.

The district, which includes Cass, Morgan, Scott and part of Greene Counties, was the only district of the five in the council which reported an increase in membership over 1957. Members of this committee include Chairman Don Crain, Robert Quigley, Harold Stewart, Al Yording, Ben Parker and Dean Strubbe of Jacksonville, and Carl E. Evans of Winchester.

Leadership Courses
The Leadership Training committee of the District will conduct courses for Cub Scout and Boy Scout leaders. Every unit leader and assistant was urged to complete at least one of these sessions of the basic training. The courses

The market steadied on Wednesday after 12 consecutive days of lower prices and turned upward on Thursday after the average cost had slipped from $22.84 on Aug. 8 to $19.55. It was one of the longest uninterrupted declines in trade history.

Cattle offerings were the largest in six weeks but demand continued good for slaughter steers and yearlings grading average choice and better and prices of these grades held steady to strong. Low choice grades and below were steady to 25 cents lower for the week.

Monday's supply was the largest for any Monday in three weeks and on Wednesday it was the largest for that day since November.

The sheep market was active with all interests in the trade throughout the week. Offerings were 5 per cent greater than last week and for the 12 major markets they were up 15 per cent.

Slaughter lambs advanced 50 cents a hundredweight, shorn ewe 50 cents to $1.

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market reached this Labor Day weekend with a huge summer rally behind it and a question mark ahead.

An estimated 18 billion dollars was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange during June, July and August, based on the rise in The Associated Press average.

The AP 60-stock average rose during this period from $170.10 to Friday's close of $184.70.

The advance reached its crest on Aug. 11 when the AP average stood at $186.50, not far below its record high of $191.50 reached in April 1956.

Labor Day is a traditional milestone or dividing line for business and the stock market so the question in Wall Street is, "where do we go from here?"

Will business and the economy continue to improve? Will the stock market resume its attack on the all-time highs?

Last week brought no firm indications of where the market was heading. Stocks ended the week with a slight gain, reflected by a 3-cent rise in the AP average.

This was entirely due to a late rally on Friday caused mainly by technical factors and featured by a speculative flurry in lower-priced stocks.

A continued rise in steel production and the spurt in building construction awards over year-ago figures were bullish factors. On the bearish side, there was a stiffening in interest rates highlighted by the spreading to Kansas City of the discount rate rise to 5 per cent from 1 1/2 per cent.

WEEK'S GRAIN FUTURES SCORE GOOD GAINS

By GIL M. YO
AP Business News Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market scored its best price advances this week since the Middle East crisis more than a month ago when U.S. Marines were sent into Lebanon.

In fact, it was only the second time since then that all contracts were ahead of the closes of the previous week.

Until Friday, the market was generally steady to strong with only minor occasional flurries of selling, mostly by profit-takers. The major influence sparking the general bullishness was resumption of Chinese Communist-Nationalist fighting and the statement by President Eisenhower that the United States would not renege on any responsibility in the defense of Formosa. The communists had threatened to invade the Nationalist-held offshore islands and to "liberate" Formosa.

Another major factor was a report that the cool weather had set back maturity of both corn and soybeans.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1 1/4-1 1/2 cents a bushel higher than a week ago, September $1.86 1/4-1/2; corn 1/4-1/2 higher, September $2.24 1/4-1/2; oats 1/4-1/2 higher, September 61 1/4-1/2; rye 4 1/2-6 1/4 higher, September $1.25 1/4-1/2; soybeans 2 1/4-4 1/4 higher, September $2.24 1/4-1/2; and 17 to 50 cents a hundred pounds higher, September $12.82.

The market weakness on Friday was described as a renewal of profit-taking and liquidation by traders who wanted to be relieved of large commitments over the three-day holiday.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. government bonds declined sharply this week. The downturn brought further weakness in municipal bonds and some high-grade corporates.

Traders said the bond markets were making adjustments in line with an expected economic comeback.

Corporate bond losses were not as severe. Investment quality securities showed firming tendencies early in the week, but gave ground the last three sessions. The low yield and utility components of The Associated Press bond averages closed the week at new lows for the year. Foreign bonds improved slightly.

value—then I'm sure they would try to hit it."

Staats agreed with Stehling and others that man-in-space could be a reality within a year or two. England's Kenneth W. Gatliff, vice president of the British Interplanetary Society, estimated 5 to 10 years.

Just a year ago, all this seemed fantasy, but the space age is developing with revolutionary speed.

U.S., Nationalist Officials Plan Quemoy Defense

Smoot, chief of the U.S. Taiwan-Potomac-Defense Command.

White conferred with Nationalist and American military experts. These high level talks will continue Sunday and Monday.

Peking radio said the Red China Defense Ministry had ordered its shore guns to redouble the pounding of Quemoy and its outposts.

But the switch of island-bound shells was only sporadic Saturday. The firing tapered off at 2:30 a.m. after the Reds delivered more than 12,000 rounds in a 24-hour period, the Nationalist Defense Ministry said. From then until dark only about 400 shells were reported fired. The Communists lobbed over an occasional shell laden with propaganda leaflets.

The Nationalists claimed their Quemoy defenses were not dented. The Defense ministry said counter-fire Friday destroyed 30 Red artillery positions on the mainland in two hours. This was the highest claim so far.

By Nationalist count, the Communists have hammered Quemoy and its outposts with more than 120,000 high explosive shells since last Saturday when they started the attack with a massive, two-hour, 41,000-round barrage.

Ike's Go-Slow May Hurt Some GOP Candidates

for immediate integration in Little Rock.

Some Republicans obviously had hoped Hagerty would explain the timing and circumstances of what they believed might have been only an offhand remark by the President.

In the absence of any such explanation, however, they lacked fresh ammunition to counter Democratic charges that the head of their party—with whom they are presumed to agree at least in principle—is dragging his feet on the integration issue.

The Republicans, of course, could cite Eisenhower's action in sending federal troops into Little Rock last year. But the President has insisted he acted then to uphold a court order and he has declined to commit himself on the Supreme Court's original school integration opinion.

Unless there are further developments this situation could make all-out support of the President by GOP candidates something of a liability in California, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Missouri.

Cubs Shade Cardinals In 10th, 3-1, On Long's Pinch-Hit Home Run

Briggs Defeated In Attempt To Swim Michigan

CHICAGO (AP)—Dale Long's 10th inning pinch-run homer broke up a 1-1 pitcher's duel between Dave Hillman of the Chicago Cubs and Sad Sam Jones of the Cardinals and brought the Cubs a 3-1 victory Saturday night.

Long's homer, his 16th of the season, followed a leadoff single by Sammy Taylor.

Taylor Phillips came in for Hillman in the 10th after Hillman, faltering in the late innings, yielded a leadoff pinch-double to Tony Noren and preserved Hillman's fourth victory as against six losses.

Phillips got Del Emlis, Gene Freese and Stan Musial in 1-2-3 order.

A ninth inning counter by the Cardinals dissolved Hillman's bid for a 1-0 shutout, a lead he protected since the second inning.

Back-to-back singles by Lee Walls and Bobby Thomson with two out provided the run. Thomson's safety, a Texas leaguer that dropped near three converging Red Birds scored Walls all the way from first.

Twice, Hillman wriggled out of jams in the seventh with the bases jammed and one out, he got Curt Flood on an inning-ending double play. In the eighth, with two on and two out, Ken Boyer ended the Cards' hopes by flying out.

THEORY SOUNDS GOOD
DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP)—Bud Roff of Douglas is seen on the golf course several nights a week.

The mystery was solved when Bartow admitted he attached a flashlight to his cap in such a manner that the beam focused on the golf ball. This forced him to keep his head down or not see the ball at all.

Good practice, said Bartow.

Seixas Battles Back, Collects National Win

By WILL GRIMSLEY
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—The old "war horse" of American tennis, Vic Seixas, unseeded and almost forgotten, fought his way back into the limelight Saturday with a brilliant victory over Denmark's Kurt Nielsen in the first round of the U.S. national championships.

The veteran Davis Cup ace from Philadelphia, who turned 35 Saturday, chopped down the tournament's seventh-seeded player in a tense 2½ hour struggle on the West Side club's center court. The score was 6-2, 4-6, 6-4, 8-10, 8-6.

Seixas clinched the match with a volleyed placement in the corner, climaxing a love game. Then he was so weary he could not rush to the net to shake hands with his victim. Weirily he trudged around the net posts.

The match was hailed as one of the finest, most exciting first-round duels ever staged on the famed center court at Forest Hills.

Seixas, although No. 1 ranked nationally, was unseeded because he had spurned the circuit this year to work at his stock salesman's job in Philadelphia. Nielsen was seeded seventh.

Seixas beat Nielsen in the Wimbledon finals in 1953 Saturday's repeat of that famous match overshadowed all other tournament developments which saw the unseeded advance of Australia's two big Davis Cup guys, Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser, and the emergence of Brazil's "Little Sable," Maria Ester Bueno, as a real threat to Althea Gibson's women's crown.

Cooper, the Wimbledon champion and No. 2 seed, and the left-handed Fraser, seeded fourth, both won easily as did Dick Savitt of New York, seeded eighth. Althea Gibson and Miss Bueno were joined in the second round by two other seeded players, Britain's towering Christine Truman and Mrs. Beverly Baker Flietz of Long Beach, Calif.

Cooper smashed Gordon Davis, Southern California student from Santa Monica, Calif., 6-1, 6-2, 6-4. Fraser toppled Courtney Henderson, an Army private from Dallas, 6-2, 6-2, 8-6.

Savitt, of New York, won over Lorne Main of Canada 6-3, 6-1, 6-1. Miss Gibson, shunted off the center court by the spectacular Miss Bueno, defeated Carolyn Wright, an 18-year-old Brooklyn College sophomore 6-1, 6-2.

Miss Bueno, eliciting "ohs" and "ahs" from the gallery, downed Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., the United States' No. 6 ranked woman, 6-2, 9-7.

Minors, Majors Hard At Work For 1959 Plans

By TED SMITS
Associated Press General Sports Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—Minor league baseball is sick but not as sick as some people seem to think. And furthermore, the doctors are at work on a new batch of medicine. Almost certainly there will be changes this fall and winter.

An Associated Press survey of all 25 minor leagues in the United States and Canada showed Sunday while attendance is down about 5 per cent this is not more than would be expected in a business recession.

There is no talk of defeatism. The major leagues and the minor leagues separately and together are at work on plans that could do much to brighten the picture in 1959. Subsidies are being granted. Reassignment of leagues is under study. The thorny problem of widespread major league television is getting attention even if no solution is in sight.

The big question hanging over the minor leagues is: What is major league baseball going to do in the next few months? What franchises will shift?

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. — (NEA) — The supposition was that all the good tennis players are playing for money.

"Totally untrue," says the old pro at the historic West Side Tennis Club. "Mal Anderson could move right along with any of them, including Pancho Gonzales."

A poll of the players reveals that the 23-year-old Anderson, son of a Queensland cattle raiser, is their unanimous choice to repeat as the United States men's singles champion in the international tournament ending a 10-day run in the Forest Hills horseshoe on Sept. 7.

The title hasn't been in this country's possession since 1955, when Tony Trabert bounced down in front. Ken Rosewall, immediately drafted by the professionals, repelled Lew Hoad in an All-Australian final in '56.

While America waits for another youngster like Don Budge or Jack Kramer to come along, the squad from Down Under has three acres — Anderson, Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser — stacked against the best we can assemble at the moment — Ham Richardson, Barry MacKay, Dick Savitt and 35-year-old Vic Seixas.

THE FIGURES POINT to another all-Kangaroo final between Anderson and his sturdy teammate, Cooper, whose defeat in straight sets a year ago shocked the swivel-necked world. The little Anderson, 6 feet and 155 pounds, who looks the part of the nice looking farmer he is, became the first unseeded shotmaker ever to acquire the crown. This was a mistake, for he had won the Newport tournament just previously.

Cooper holds the Australian and Wimbledon grass court championships, so you may ask why Anderson was seeded first here.

Well, Anderson was the victim of extenuating circumstances in both big numbers. At home, the final set of his semi-final with the hard-hitting and suspended southpaw, Mervyn Rose, had to be postponed. The next day he won it, 19-17, after 36 games. Some matches don't involve that many games, but Anderson, the nervous type who requires rest between tournaments, had to turn right around and tackle Cooper.

AT WIMBLEDON, ANDERSON was forced to default after tearing ligaments in his left ankle. He repulsed Cooper in two sectional tournaments in Australia, more recently repelled him in straight sets at Newport.

Anderson is not as strong as the 6-foot, 170-pound Cooper, dark and handsome like Gregory Peck, but he is vastly more versatile. Cooper's game follows a pattern whereas Anderson of the many shots and a fine hand with the racket adjusts himself to situations.

Anderson perhaps is the slickest all-round amateur since Karmar, certainly the most accomplished in the world today. He rises to the heights to a greater extent than any other active simon-pure.

Fraser, the third Australian, is a large southpaw with a terrific service, who wins important matches but not tournaments. He has never won from Cooper in 12 outings.

ON THE WOMEN'S SIDE, Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz, who has two forehands swatting the ball with both hands, is given some sort of a chance against Althea Gibson, the defending titleholder. The Beverly Hills matron would be an even stronger candidate had she not had to take out so much time with the kids.

Maria Esther Bueno of Brazil has turned back Miss Gibson and all the rest of our gals. Christine Truman edged the Harlem paddle stick graduate in the Wightman Cup matches and her British teammate, Ann Haydon, is considered even more formidable than the over-sized youngster.

Oil up your neck and come on out.

Winstead had thirty candidates reporting for fall football practice, several of which are promising sophomores. The Rockets have five 11-man games on tap in addition to four 8-man contests. Routh opens its campaign at home against Franklin in an 11-man affair Saturday, September 13. The Rockets are members of the PMSO conference, where they finished second last season with a four win, one loss record. Routh won six and lost two in 1957.

This season marks the third for Winstead as Rocket pilot. He rates his team as fast and about average in weight. Winstead picks Chapin as the biggest conference threat.

The Rockets are also strong favorites to win conference laurels. The 13 lettermen have an average of two years experience of varsity ball. Of the 13, nine are seniors.

Tom Murray, one of the lettermen pictured above, didn't earn his letter last year as a Rocket but as a member of the Greenfield squad.

Of the new prospects, Winstead rates Fred Curtis, Bill Tobin and Jack Lawless as the most outstanding.

College Football Faces Option Play After TD

NEW YORK (AP)—College football sets down to the hard-knocks pace Monday of redefining its controversial new look for the 1958 season.

It used to be that the start of autumn drills was simply the tell-tale sign that the season-opening kickoff was only two to three weeks away.

This year harried coaches will be faced with the dilemma the majority foresaw when the rules makers adopted the option of a two-point play following a touchdown.

This provides that a team can score two extra points if it can run or pass into the end zone from the opponent's 3-yard line after a touchdown. If a team prefers to go conservative, the old style placekick or dropkick from the three points for one point.

Cincinnati Clubs Phillie Hurlers For 12-3 Triumph

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds, whose hitting has been on the puny side most of the season, clubbed Philadelphia pitchers for 16 hits Saturday and an easy 12-3 victory.

Frank Robinson got four hits for the Cincinnatians and drove in three runs. Jerry Lynch and Pete Whisenant also drove in three tallies each. Whisenant and Walt Dropo each got home runs for the Redlegs while Wally Pate and Harry Anderson clubbed circuit blows for the Phils.

The victory stretched Cincinnati's sixth-place margin over the Phils to 25 games.

Tom Aker, taken out for a pinch hitter when the Redlegs came from behind in a five-run sixth inning, was credited with the victory. Reliever Brooks Lawrence's job was made easy when Cincinnati climbed on John Anderson for six more runs in the seventh.

Big Ten Squads Open Practice Period Monday

CHICAGO (AP)—Big Ten squads will open an intense three-week practice period Monday leading to the start of the football schedule Sept. 27.

Upwards of 750 hopefuls will report for fall drills. A good supply of sophomore talent, plus more than 200 lettermen, give the conference prospect of another banner campaign.

As usual, the biggest turnouts will be at Ohio State and Michigan State, again rated as outstanding favorites in a race that could be more wide open than usual.

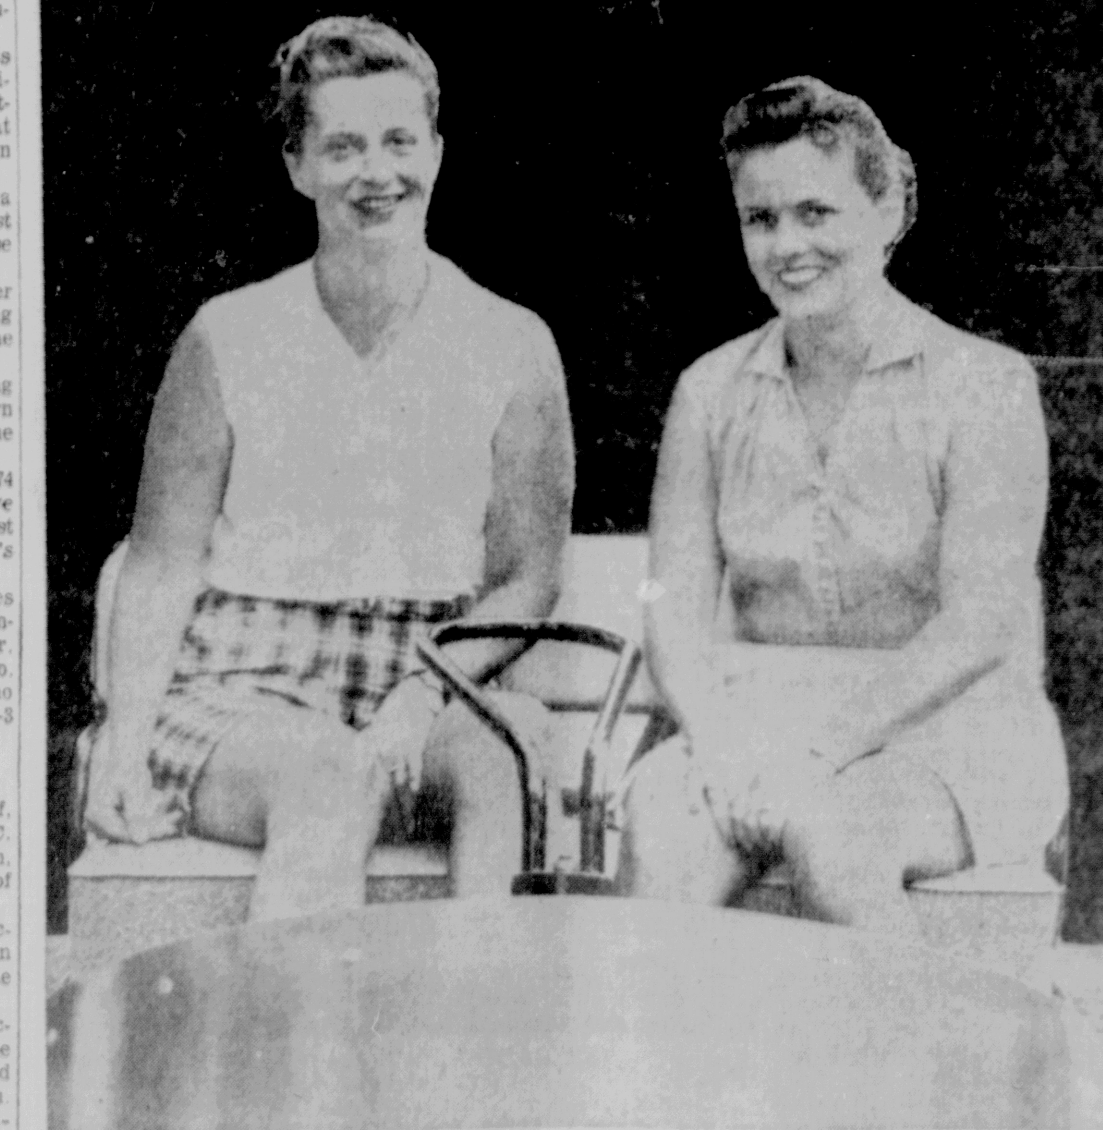

Purdue also is strong and Iowa could blossom if coach Forest Evashevski can build a defense which will hold up.

Wisconsin figures highly after its fine 1957 season with a young team and Illinois may cause some surprise.

Michigan has a big rebuilding job while Indiana, Northwestern and Minnesota may bring up the rear.

Minnesota expects to greet 74 players, but the Gophers have only 15 lettermen back, smallest group of holdovers in the school's modern history.

At Notre Dame, 86 candidates also will report for action Monday. Co-captains Al Eucy, guard, and tackle Chuck Puntillo, head 25 monogram men who helped the Irish compile a 7-3 record last year.

L.W.G.A. WINNERS this season at the Jacksonville Country Club were Mrs. Elmer Lukeman (left) the runner-up and the winner, Mrs. Gerald Vasconcellos.

Frank Lary Hurls, Bats Tigers To 6-3 Triumph Over Chisox

CHICAGO (AP)—Frank Lary, slender right-hander, pitched and hit in four times at bat in his bid for the individual batting championship, injured his right arm sliding into second base and was forced to leave the game. The injury was not considered serious.

The Tigers took advantage of Ray Moore's wildness to score three runs on one hit in the first inning, but could get only one run out of four hits and two walks in the seventh. That came about because Lary and Kuenn, who opened the inning with singles, both were caught in an attempted double steal.

Frank Bolling batted in four of the Tiger runs with a double and a single.

Home runs—Detroit, Lary (1), Lary and R. Wilson, Moore, Latman (4), Qualters (6), Staley (7), Low (8) and Lollar, L. — Moore.

It's a thin slice of big time golf between seasoned dough, the $12,000 Vancouver open this weekend and the $25,000 Denver Open the following week.

But like all good sandwiches it's the personal touch that counts. Knowing it might prove difficult to draw some of goldom's top shooters to a low-price event between the Vancouver and Denver shows, Utah Golf Assn. President Steve Dunford and his tournament committee tried the direct contact method.

For the past several weeks they have been buttonholing big-name pros at tournaments in the Midwest, Canada and the West.

"How are you fixed for lodging in Salt Lake City? Now, here are some good places to eat. What about arrangements for your family? Anything at all we can do?"

It paid off and consequently some of the best will be at the Salt Lake Country Club for the 72-hole play starting Friday. The rounds continue through Monday.

Dunford & Co. has assurances the pack will be led by such as top money-winner Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa. The roster includes Jimmy Turner, Mike Souchak, Doug Ford, Gene Littler, Dick Mayer, Art Wall Jr., Billy Casper and Dow Finsterwald.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Bob Friend finally has won 18. Dick Stuart is no flop. And the Pittsburgh Pirates? Man, they're blowing the foam off the beer in Milwaukee.

The barreling Bucs got off running in their week-long showdown with the Braves by winning 3-2 at Milwaukee Friday night, trimming the champs' National League lead to 61 games again.

The second place Pirates trail the Braves by six games in the lost column—and they have six games today and Sunday at Milwaukee and four in Pittsburgh next weekend.

Friend, the workhorse of the Buc staff, needed some relief help—and got plenty of it from Don Gross—at the end, but he had enough to out-due southpaw Warren Spahn and move out all alone as the NL's top winner.

The Pirate right-hander now is 18-13, Spahn, firing for his ninth season of 20 or more victories, is 17-10.

Los Angeles knocked off third place San Francisco 4-1 and retained fourth place over the St. Louis Cardinals, who defeated the Chicago Cubs 7-5, Cincinnati rapped Philadelphia 5-3.

Friend, now 4-1 against the Braves and 2-1 in duels with Spahn, had a two-run lead and a six-hit going into the ninth. Then Eddie Mathews belted his 28th home run and Hank Aaron, who was 4-for-4, singled, Gross, a lefty, came on, got left-handed batter Wes Covington on a double play, and then got left-handed batter Frank Torre on a ground ball that bagged it.

The Dodgers handed the Giants their eighth defeat in 10 games behind the five-hit pitching of Don Drysdale and home runs by Carl Furillo and Don Zimmer. Drysdale (18-11) had a three-hit shutout until Leon Wagner homered with two out in the eighth. Lefty Paul Giel (4-4) lost it.

Wally Moon drove in three runs for the Cards with a home run and a two-run triple while Larry Jackson won his 12th with his sixth straight complete game. Dick Drott (6-11) was the loser.

Bob Purkey, the right-hander the Pirates traded to Cincinnati for Gross last December, won his 15th, tops on the Middle staff, with an eight-hit bid. The Reds also had a walk and an infield out for four runs in the fifth. Loser Don Cardwell (2-3) had given up just one hit 'til then.

VACATION BLUES
ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—Robert H. Miller of Ottumwa, Iowa, doesn't expect his golf game to improve this summer. Thieves stole a matched set of Cary Middlecott autographed clubs from the trunk of his car here.

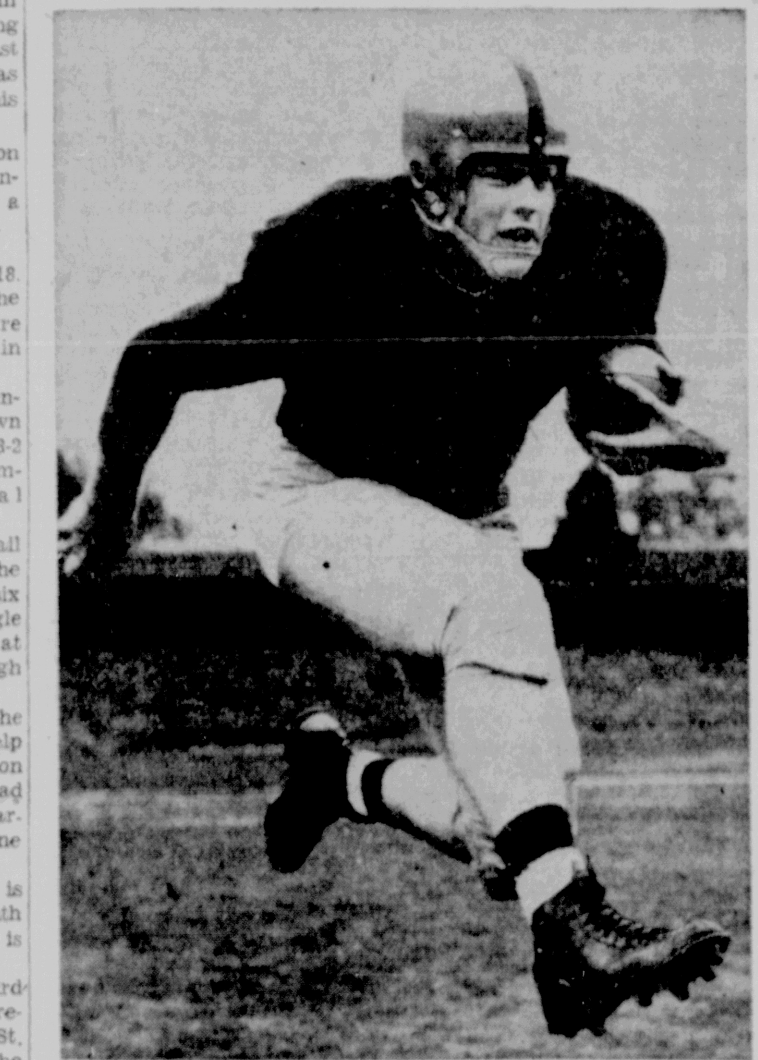

Behind Delveaux is a flock of promising sophomores, including Jim and Bill Brown, brothers who made a match set of Cary Middlecott autographed clubs from the trunk of his car here.

This coming season, with Nitschke gone, Delveaux appears to be firmly established as a starter and should achieve the stardom predicted for him. His natural ability, coupled with two years' experience, should make him one of the best fullbacks in the Big Ten—and possibly the nation. Much of Illinois' hope for football success in 1958 rests on Delveaux.

Rock Sharer, 6-1, 227-pound Roselle (Proviso-Maywood) sophomore may rank higher at the fullback position as he gains experience. He is also a candidate for Illinois' swimming team.

Illini Captain Shared Fullback Spotlight With Ray Nitschke

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—When Jack Delveaux joined the Illinois varsity football squad two years ago he was considered a sure future star. He had led Chicago's Fenger high school to the city championship in 1954, and had been picked on prep All-American teams. At 6-1 and 210 pounds he had plenty of size; he could run, block and tackle, and he had a solid football background.

Anyone not familiar with Illinois' team for the past two seasons might conclude that Delveaux, captain of the 1958 Illinois, had failed to live up to what was expected of him. His statistics are not particularly impressive—he gained 181 yards in 1956 and 280 in 1957, and failed to receive mention on any all-conference or regional teams.

Actually, Delveaux was playing fine football, alternating as a regular for two years with Ray Nitschke, a member of the 1956 College All-Stars. Because the two players divided fullback duties, neither received the recognition he might have received otherwise.

Jim Brown played fullback in high school, was tried at end as a freshman at Illinois, then was switched back to fullback. Bill Brown has always been at fullback. Both Jim and Bill were high school all-stars.

Jim Brown put on quite a display of power running in the annual spring intra-squad game, gaining 75 yards in 18 carries, for a 4.2 average. Bill, named honorary captain of the frosh, missed the game because of an injury.

If neither of the Browns can do the job, Danville's Mel Lewis, also a former all-stater, might get the call. Lewis is a tough two-way player who needs only college seasoning to become a fine fullback. A powerful runner, he scored three touchdowns and gained 142 yards in the first half of a high school game.

Few players on the Illinois squad can match Art Kaha's combination of size and speed. Kaha, former all-state fullback from Cairo, stands 6-3, weighs 212, and has run 100 yards in ten seconds flat. He was given a try at halfback last season, but switched to fullback again in spring practice. A knee injury has handicapped Kaha's college career so far.

Dan Wile, 6-0, 187-pound Salem senior, lettered at fullback his sophomore year. He was used at halfback last season. He was second leading ground gainer in the spring intra-squad game.

Milwaukee's Burdette Turns Back Pirates For 16th Victory, 9-1

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee's Lew Burdette beat back the menacing Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday with a double and a triple good for four runs and an effective 10-hit pitching job that added up to an armchair-easy 9-1 Braves' victory.

Burdette, with home run help from Frank Torre and Eddie Mathews, put the National League leading Braves 7½ games ahead of the runnerup Pirates once again.

A County Stadium turnout of 28,648 witnessed Burdette's 16th triumph, his fifth in a row and ninth since the All-Star game. He has lost 9, including only 2 since the inter-league classic.

Curt Raydon, an ex-Braves farmhand, was shelled from the mound in the third when Milwaukee registered six runs. He absorbed the loss, his fourth against seven victories.

Pittsburgh, which left eight runners stranded, notched its lone run off Burdette in the fifth on a pair of singles, a forceout and Bob Skinner's double.

Miami, Newburgh Capture Pony Grad Triumphs

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Miami edged out Proviso of Maywood, Ill., 3-2 in an extra-inning game in the second round of the Pony Grad World Series Saturday.

After tying the score in the fifth inning, Miami earned its winning tally in the eighth.

Catcher Joe Taylor made the winning run. He singled, then stole second and went on to third on a passed ball. He scored on a wild pitch.

A catch by centerfielder Bob Rodriguez in the sixth inning saved the game for Miami. Rodriguez grabbed a long ball hit by Tony Provenzano with a man on second.

Miami 100 010 01—3 9 3 Proviso 110 000 00—2 9 3 Norman, Zardon (2) and Taylor; Beckman, Brunst (6) and Slobodnik.

Sunday, Miami faces Newburgh, N.Y., which grabbed an 8-7 victory from Brownsville, Pa., earlier Saturday, despite a last-ditch scoring spree by the Pennsylvania team.

Brownsville was thus eliminated from title contention and Newburgh evened its record at 1-1. Two losses result in elimination from the series.

Newburgh Sunday will face Saturday's loser, Proviso of Maywood, Ill.

Trailing 8-3 going into the seventh and final inning, Brownsville rallied for four runs to come within one of the victory. But Tom Lowe flew out with two men on base to end the game.

Al Ricciuti of Brownsville hit an inside-the-park home run in the fourth inning, and Newburgh's Bob Barr slammed one out of the park in the sixth. Both blows came with the bases empty.

CHICAGO (AP) — Llangollen Farm's Restless Wind, ridden by Willie Shoemaker, Saturday approached the all-time winning money record for 2-year-olds by taking a photo finish decision over the 160-725 Washington Park Futurity in Arlington Park.

Dashing the six furlongs in 1:09 3/5 to match the fixture's record set by Swoon's Son in 1935, the son of Windy City II collected $112,225 as a supplementary pinner.

This boosted the chestnut colt's earnings to $271,833 and left the color-bearer of Mrs. Elizabeth Whitney Lunn of Upperville, Pa., only $77,809 short of the juvenile winning mark. This was set last year by Jewel's Reward.

Restless Wind in a driving head-to-head finish with Triple C, Stable's Winsome Winner, with William Carstens aboard, withstood an inquiry to pay $5.00, $3.20 and $2.80.

Carstens claimed Restless Wind, running on the outside, brushed him at the 1-16th pole, but the foul was not upheld by stewards.

Winsome Winner paid a staggering $39.00 and $14.80, while Demobilize, another supplementary entrant, returned $8.20 to show.

Davenport Lands Six Players On Three I Team

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Davenport's first half champions placed six men on the honorary All-Star Three I Baseball League team announced Saturday night by league president Hal Totten.

The Davos also had two men each on the second and third teams.

Cedar Rapids, which has led the second half race virtually all the way, had three men on each lineup. Green Bay placed eight players, including three on the first team.

Two Green Bay players — outfielder Frank Howard and shortstop Harry Eugene Wallace — were named to the first team on all of the 20 ballots cast by sportswriters and sportscasters. Howard earlier had been chosen the League's Most Valuable player and outstanding rookie.

Davenport's players on the first team were first baseman Don Mincher; third baseman Bob Sagers; catcher Chuck Lindstrom; outfielder Dick Lombardi; right-handed pitcher Bill Rouse and manager Tra Hutchinson.

Cedar Rapids placed Bob Knapp at second base and both left-handed pitchers — Bill Hamilton and Bob Hendley.

Right-handed pitcher Bob Sedlak was Green Bay's third first team member. The other first team spot went to Burlington outfielder Lee Handley.

Closest competition for a first team assignment was between Knapp and Winona's Tony Purlo. Although Purlo received nine first team nominations to seven for Knapp, the 19-year-old Cedar Rapids star won the selection by a single point, 57 to 56.

Griffith Files Minneapolis Pact For Later Action

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER WASHINGTON (AP)—Calvin Griffith Saturday received the carefully drawn contract which Minneapolis boosters of big league baseball hope will lure his Washington Senators to the city.

Griffith reported these immediate steps:

He glanced over the document, saw what it was, stuffed it back in the envelope and filed it for future action.

Club President Griffith and his board of directors could act in advance of a special major league meeting called for Chicago on Sept. 8 but he insisted no date has been set to consider the proposition.

The directors ordinarily would not meet again until Sept. 30. Three of the five, however, are members of the Griffith family, and the entire group could be summoned with the dial of a telephone.

Griffith apparently is waiting for evidence that Minneapolis has cleared the snags from its campaign to grab the American League franchise which Washington has held since 1901.

Three members of the Minneapolis Board of Estimate and Taxation objected Friday to immediate approval of a nine-million-dollar bond issue to enlarge the city's stadium. Lifting fingers of caution against arguments that speed was urgent, they deferred consideration of the issue until next Tuesday.

The threat of a slowdown intensified St. Paul's effort to beat Minneapolis to the draw of big league baseball to Minnesota's Twin Cities area. The St. Paul council Friday guaranteed a bond issue of three to four million dollars to expand its stadium if St. Paul collars a franchise.

Pressure against a Washington-Minneapolis shift may also increase from other quarters. Both Sen. Joseph C. Mahoney (D-Wyo.) and Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) recently deplored talk of franchise moves while Congress is adjourned, thus raising the threat of legislation to eliminate organized baseball's immunity from the antitrust laws.

Other club owners, who ordinarily would not stand in a colleague's way, would still have to give their consent if the Senators wanted to leave the capital. Six of the eight American League club must approve franchise changes.

Terms of the Minneapolis proposal were not disclosed.

Foxcatcher Cup Steeplechase Is Cancelled

FAIR HILL, Md. (AP)—The Foxcatcher National Cup Steeplechase, proudly designed by William Du Pont Jr. as the toughest test of horsemanship in the United States, has been cancelled.

Money is at the root of the scratching of the Foxcatcher which had been scheduled for its 19th running next Saturday, according to the Wilmington, Del. businessman and sportsman.

"We haven't the betting handle for the purses to compete with big tracks for the horses," explained Du Pont.

"The young and nimble horses which can run fast and far can run for $20,000 stakes. So they are not going to be saved for lesser purses such as the Foxcatcher."

The Foxcatcher purse goes between $4,000 and $5,000. "At one time, only one or two other steeplechases exceeded it," Du Pont said. "Now overnight races are worth that much."

Du Pont said that if times change and enough good steeplechase horses could be rounded up he would renew the Foxcatcher in a subsequent year.

Eliot Alters 6 Slots As Illini Poise For Drills

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Six position switches were announced by Illinois Football Coach Ray Eliot today as his 1938 Illini stood poised to begin two-day practice sessions Monday amid an air of optimism. All of the changes were designed to provide better depth behind veteran performers, and did not affect the top two units.

Another series of changes moved letterman tackle Bruce Dollahan, 6-3, 215, Kansas City, Mo. (Berkeley, Mich.) senior, from right tackle to right guard. George Brokemond, 6-14, 225, East Chicago, Ind. (Washington) senior, switches from right guard to left guard, and sophomore Joe Wenfryhowski, 6-2, 212, West Frankfort, changes to center, the spot in which he began his collegiate career.

Dollahan joins a promising group of right guard candidates, which includes senior letterman Bob Allen, junior Gerry Patrick, and sophomores Lindell Lovelle and Ken Kraml.

Brokemond's move to left guard establishes him in a contest for the first-team berth with lettermen Dave Ash and Bill Burrell and sophomore Pat Lennon.

At center, Wendryhowski has major competition from senior letterman Gene Cherney and Bob Henderson, as well as returning squad member John Stapleton and sophomore Gary Hembrough.

Three personnel changes from the original invitation list were announced today. Center Mike Guinan, Chicago (Mt. Carmel) sophomore, will not return to school. End Dick Nietupski, Chicago (Fenger) sophomore, and halfback Jim DiGirolamo, Springfield (Lanphier) junior, have been invited to join the fall squad.

"Much must be accomplished before our opening game here with U.C.L.A. Sept. 27," Eliot said. "But the spirit is high and I feel we have a squad with which we can make strides."

First order of business for the 75 hopefuls is physical examinations Sunday morning, followed by a picture-taking session with newspaper and motion picture photographers Sunday afternoon.

First practice will be at 9:30 a.m. Monday, and sessions will be twice daily at 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. until beginning of classes.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIR

NEW YORK (AP)—Twenty-four countries from all points of the globe have entered the first amateur golf team championship for the Eisenhower Trophy, the sponsoring World Amateur Golf Council said Saturday. The 72-hole tournament will be held Oct. 8-11 over the Old Course in St. Andrews, Scotland.

The council said it expects at least six more countries to enter. Each country may enter four players but the scores of only the lowest three players will count in the stroke play tournament.

The U.S. team will be selected during the amateur championship at San Francisco, ending Sept. 13. Bobby Jones, the old grand-slammer of golf, is the playing captain of the Americans.

Loose Wallet Brings Maywood Forfeit Win

AURORA, Ill. (AP)—Second baseman Bob Seidel left his wallet on top of his clothes locker today and as a result the entire Cary Ind. softball team was barred from the West Central Regional Tournament.

Gary had just defeated Maywood, Ill., 1-0 in the first round and the players had finished dressing in the locker room.

A Maywood player noticed the wallet and opened it to see who the owner was so it could be returned.

Inside was a card showing that Seidel was a resident of Blue Island, Ill. He had joined the Cary Ind. softball for the regional tournament but had not played for the Gary team when it won the Indiana state title.

Maywood manager Ed Dickey protested to commissioner Charles Jensen of the Chicago Metropolitan Softball Assn. Under American Softball Assn. rules a non-resident member of a state team is ineligible for tournament competition and the entire team is ineligible if it uses such a player.

The game was forfeited by Gary, Maywood winning.

Elks Give City Shrubbery From Building Site

Mayor Robert DuBois said Saturday that the Jacksonville Elks club has donated to the city and park board the expensive shrubbery that surrounds its old building, which is now being razed to make way for a new structure.

Park employees under supervision of Supt. John McGee, and City Forester Jerry Minkins will begin removing the shrubbery Tuesday of this week. It will be transplanted on city and park property, including Central park and Nichols park.

Shrubbery around the Elks building went undamaged last spring when fire badly damaged the interior of the big structure. The new headquarters when completed will be landscaped again. "It was a very fine gesture on the part of the Elks," Mayor DuBois declared, in discussing the gift of the shrubbery.

INSPECTED — AND REJECTED!

This photograph was taken last week as "Big Ed" Dober, 40 year veteran of Arenzville burgoo, scouted Cass county feed lots to find the right kind of beef for the famed burgoo to be served Wednesday and Thursday.

He thought this Shorthorn cow might be O.K., but finally decided to look elsewhere. He found a better animal and Soupmaker Elza Perry of Meredosia will have plenty of prime beef to work with this week.

Perry has been at the soup making business for even longer than Dober. His recipe for burgoo is the only one appearing in the White House cookbook.

Back in 1937 the late James M. Barnes of Jacksonville remarked to President Franklin D. Roosevelt that he'd like to have a bowl of burgoo. FDR was intrigued by the word and asked all about it. Barnes requested his friend, Perry to send the recipe. The White House cook made a batch of it.

The story goes that FDR liked it first rate, but Barnes said it was a "rather inferior, since it should be cooked over a wood fire, and not on a gas range."

The people of Arenzville have erected rather modest signs on all roads leading into town and these signs modestly state, "Arenzville — Home Of The Best Burgoo In The World."

The Arenzville people have built a new stage this year and will have good entertainment on tap both days, afternoon and evening.

Stella Lorton, 79, Dies Saturday; Rites Tuesday

Mrs. Stella Lorton, 79, of 903 W. College avenue, died at 7:28 p.m. Saturday at her home, where she had lived for more than 26 years

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

When baler twine replaced the wire ties in the baling machines we jokingly wondered how a farmer could stay in business without baling wire to hold things together. Working on the Station this week is a hay-making machine that promises to take even the baling twine from the farmer. The International Harvester company is operating an experimental hay wader maker so that we will have a supply for experimental feeding and so that "they can iron out some of the kinks in their machine."

Pellet Feeds Good
For several years the Station has been feeding pelleted feeds. First, complete rations for fattening lambs and cattle were pelleted and self fed. Gains and costs were so favorable that the pelleting was tried on hay-ground, pelleted and self fed. Again the feeding value of hay and the rates of gain for pellets rocketed above expectations. A lot of interest in pelleted hay has resulted.

A Short Cut
But the pelleting of hay is not a cheap or an easy process. Cured hay must be ground. At the pelleting mill, steam or water as a binder must be added to the ground hay. Pellets of various sizes may be made, but all must be dried before storing. Machinery companies have worked hard to shorten and cheapen the hay pelleting process.

International's experimental model takes cured hay from the windrow, and without grinding the hay, hammers out a continuous tube full of pressed hay in the form of wafers or biscuits. The disc shaped wafers are about 1 1/2 inches thick and 4 inches across.

The Test?
The hay pellets fed on the Station in the past have been about the size of a 22 caliber rifle shell and have been credited with making as much wafers as the 22 shell. The hay wafers now being produced are bigger in diameter than the 90 m.m. an. shell, but the question to be answered by feeding trials is "Does it carry the same wafers as the 22 caliber size hay pellet?"

Molasses in Rations
In cattle fattening trials on the Station, where molasses has replaced 5 to 10 per cent of the corn in the ration, gains have been depressed by a tenth to a quarter of a pound per head per day. Does this surprise you?

Really, there is no particular merit in molasses except as it may be used to increase the intake of rations that have little taste appeal to cattle or sheep. Also, blackstrap molasses may be bought in tank car quantities by feed mixers and manufacturers at a saving over the cost of corn. About 90 per cent of the blackstrap molasses fed to livestock is fed in formula or commercially mixed feeds.

The reason that molasses when used to replace part of the corn in rations has not given as high gains as that molasses has only two-thirds the feeding value or total digestible nutrients of corn. So, don't expect miracles from a ration just because it contains molasses.

Find Hack Saw Blades On Man; Jail Searched

JERSEYVILLE—Following receipt of a telephone call from the headquarters of the FBI in Springfield Wednesday evening a general shakedown of prisoners and the interior of the Jersey county jail was conducted by city and county officers.

A call from a United States marshal at Springfield was to the effect that hack saw blades had been found in possession of Melvin Grover Lindley who was removed from the Jersey county jail to the Federal holdover at Springfield Monday evening.

Lindley had been arrested Saturday afternoon by Federal operatives and city police on a fugitive warrant and held temporarily in the Jersey county jail until his removal to Springfield Monday evening by a U. S. marshal.

Lindley was picked up here on a fugitive warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution on a charge of rape. The complaint had been filed in Forrest City, Ark. Oct. 25, 1957.

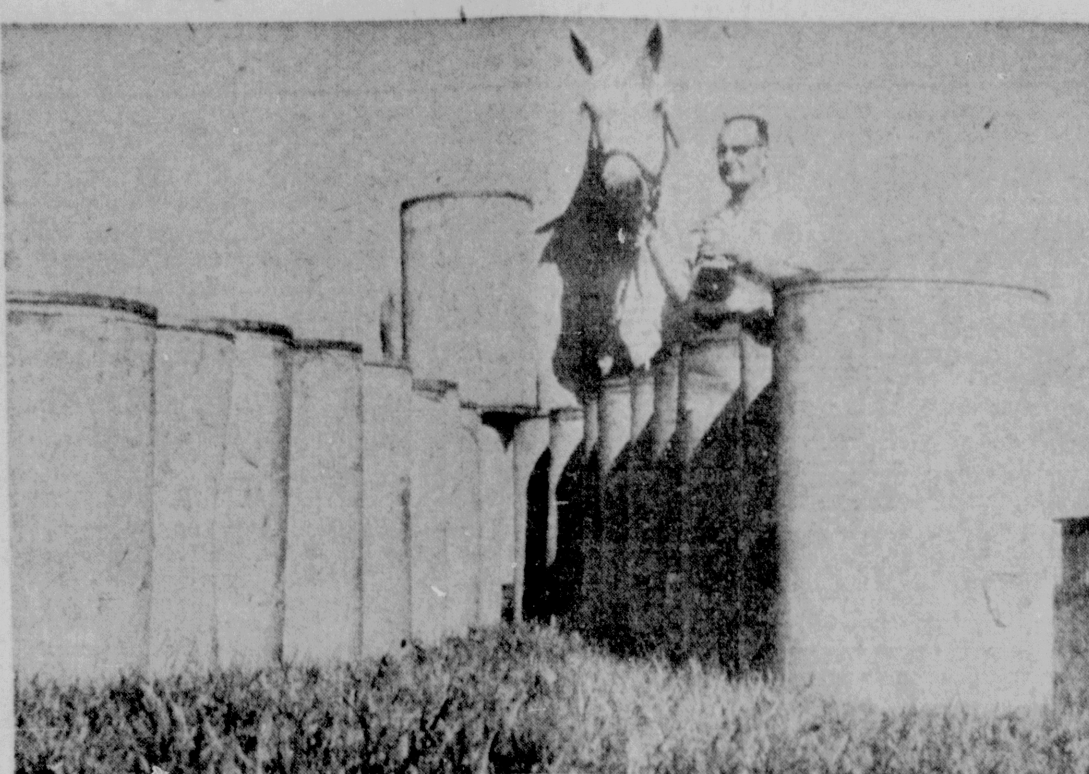

Lindley escaped 14 years ago from the Oklahoma State Penitentiary where he was serving a sentence on a charge of murder, according to a telephone call received Monday night by Sheriff Herman C. Kirchner from the warden at McAllister.

The U. S. Marshal's office at Springfield reported Wednesday evening that officers from Arkansas had arrived and that Lindley was returned to that state to face the charge there before being returned to the Oklahoma penitentiary.

Lindley arrived in Jerseyville more than three weeks ago and rented a room at the rear of the Purcell poolroom. He was arrested there Saturday afternoon. A search of his room brought to light a .45 calibre revolver and a heavy leather shoulder holster, a "home made job."

For a winter strawberry mulch, use good clean straw that is free of weed seed. Apply the mulch after two or three frosts but before the temperature drops below 20 degrees F. The proper depth for the mulch is about one inch. Use sawdust or shavings for raspberry mulches.

DOLLY — A CHAMPION BLOOD DONOR

Dolly, an old gray mare owned by the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine, has donated 1 1/2 times her weight in blood, or enough blood to fill these barrels. Ray Hamilton, laboratory technician, holds the 1,056th liter of blood that he has taken from Dolly since 1947. The 24-year-old mare has given 264 gallons of blood for scientific research. Dolly's blood is used at the University's bacteriology and chemistry laboratories, the State Health Laboratory, Chanute Air Force Base, local hospitals, Cook county hospital and the University of Illinois Medical College of Veterinary Medicine.

Outlook Meeting In Cass County Thursday Night

VIRGINIA—The 1958 fall outlook meeting will be held at the Farm Bureau hall in Virginia on Thursday evening, Sept. 4. The meeting will commence at 8:30 p.m.

"Latest information concerning the outlook on profits from the various livestock enterprises will be thoroughly discussed. Bring along any questions you may have concerning your livestock feed program," says Farm Adviser Russell Meredith.

This year's outlook is being held again in compliance with the results of a survey of livestock producers in which about 90% of those returning questionnaires requested a meeting of this type be held.

George Whitman from the college of agriculture and a representative from Producers will present the program. Each will present their views about the immediate and long time outlook for prices of various types of livestock.

Pike 4-H Steer Sale Sept. 9

PITTSFIELD—The Pike County 4-H Agricultural club will hold their fourth annual Steer Show and Sale on Sept. 9.

The committee has been busy completing plans to make this show and sale one of the best. The show will begin at 4 p.m. C.S.T. on the grounds at the Pittsfield Community sale barn in west Pittsfield.

The steers will be sold beginning at 7 o'clock. The grand champion will be sold first, followed by the sale of the reserve grand champion, the blue ribbon winners and the participation ribbon winners. Evans and Venable, auctioneers, will furnish their services free of charge.

Committee members include: Gerald Fudge, Stewart Hayden, Louis Rodhouse, and Bert Weas. They have been assisted by Richard Bergman of the Bergman Packing company and Evans.

Herbert M. Wendler, farm adviser, suggests that if you are interested in purchasing top quality beef you should plan to attend this sale on Sept. 9 and bid on these choice 4-H Beef Calves.

Wet Corn Gains Feeders' Favor

Livestock feeders who are considering drying grain should look into and fully consider the possibility of wet storage, says Herman Heil, University of Missouri extension agricultural engineer.

This is an especially good consideration if dry grain storage space is at a premium. Wet storage is the storing of high moisture grain in upright silos. It has been successfully done in other states, especially in Iowa, Illinois, and Indiana, for several years.

For livestock feeding it appears that the advantages of wet grain storage far outweigh its disadvantages and its future looks promising.

Advantages of the wet storage method of handling grain include the following:

1. It's cheap storage if put in conventional silos.
2. Early harvest prevents field losses.
3. Drying isn't necessary.
4. Feeding trials with steers show some gain with 10 percent less corn.
5. Feeding trials on hogs indicate at least as good results as with dry grain.

Disadvantages are:

1. Grain not marketable due to softness and ensiled odor. It's good for livestock feed only.
2. Only one or two days supply can be fed at a time. Otherwise the grain will spoil.
3. Extra pressure will require more reinforcing in some silos. The pressure will be about the same as for grass silage.

A whole will drown, just like a human, if it is beneath the water's surface too long.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

SHEEP BUSINESS MORE STABLE THAN PORK, BEEF

Usually there is very little talk about the business of producing lambs and wool in Illinois. However, if you insist on bringing up the subject, with our associate director of extension he might tell you that the sale of lambs, sheep and wool brings Illinois farmers some $15 million a year.

This amount is approximately equal to the income received from the sale of chickens, including broilers. It is about double the income received from the sale of apples and peaches combined.

The sheep business has had its share of ups and downs. But prices of lambs and wool have not swung so widely in recent years as have prices of hogs and beef cattle. And no big price swings are expected in the next few years.

Perhaps the outstanding feature of the sheep business in recent times was the decline in production that occurred after World War II. Before 1947 sheepmen produced enough lamb and mutton to provide everyone with around 7 pounds per year. (If you don't eat your share someone else got that much more.)

Supply Is Down
Since 1949 the supply of lamb and mutton has been only about 4 pounds per person. Prices of lambs went up for a little while, reaching the high 30's in 1951. (In that year both lamb and beef were in short supply, and the Korean War demand boosted the value of lamb pelts into the stratosphere.)

The scarcity and high price of lamb caused many consumers to almost forget about it. Many stores stopped handling it, and this took more consumers out of the market. In a relatively short time lamb was selling down in line with beef, even though the supply was much smaller than before.

Three years ago the supply of lamb and mutton was up 4 1/2 pounds per person per year. Since then the supply has declined 5 percent; a year, until this year there is only about 4 pounds per person.

Sheep numbers are now increasing and the supply of lamb chops may keep pace with population for awhile. At the beginning of this year farmers and ranchers had 27,390,000 head of stock sheep, according to USDA estimates. This number was up 3 percent from a year before, but was not much different from the numbers reported each year from 1949 through 1957.

The 1958 lamb crop is estimated at 20,779,000 head. This is 4 percent more than last year, and 7 percent more than the 10-year average. This increase is only moderate, and even it may be offset by the holding back of ewe lambs for breeding. The lamb crop in Texas, the major supplier of feeder lambs, is 14 percent larger than last year, but still 7 percent smaller than the average.

"A Good Gamble"
Feeding lambs look like a good gamble this year. Feeder lambs may be cheaper than feeder cattle. Purchase of light lambs seems to offer the best odds. If purchased early they can make cheap gains on pastures or in cornfields. If purchased late there is a better chance for a rise in prices.

The 1958 production of shorn wool is estimated at 240 million pounds. This is 2 percent more than last year but only 4 percent more than the 10-year average. The sheep business is being squeezed out of the west and is gaining in the corn belt and the east. This is shown by the wool production figures. Production of wool in 13 western states is 2 percent less than the 10-year average, while the 35 "native" states produced 19 percent more than their average.

1,000 Expected At Gelbach Farm Tour In Logan

Nearly 1,000 farmers and others interested in modern efficient hog production are expected for the Illinois Farm Management Tour Wednesday, Sept. 3, at the Albert Gelbach farm near Lincoln.

D. F. Wilken, University of Illinois farm management specialist and tour chairman, reports that about 500 reservations for the pork barbecue luncheon have already been received.

Tour visitors will see a modern, efficient 280-acre hog farm producing 1,500 hogs a year. Well arranged central farrowing and pasture layouts make possible high production per man. Wilken reports that the Gelbach farm produces $76 an acre more than similar hog farms and yet costs are only $42 an acre more than the others.

The tour farm is located five miles southeast of Lincoln on Illinois route 121 and then 2 1/2 miles west on the Chesterville, blacktop road. Signs will be posted to direct visitors to the farm.

4-H Agriculture Committee To Meet

Leaders of Morgan county agricultural 4-H club will meet at Farm Bureau hall at 8 p.m. Tuesday for the annual "finish-up" program.

The leaders will meet with Bob Hayward, Jr., assistant farm adviser, to pick the achievement winners of the year and to nominate county project and county outstanding members.

These nominations will be considered by the agriculture 4-H committee at a meeting which will begin at Farm Bureau hall at 9 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 17.

Members of the committee are: Charles Williamson, chairman; Gerald Heaton, Harold Hamel, Bob Houston, Bob Darley, LeRoy Sweet and Warren Lakamp. The two year terms of Sweet and Lakamp expire and their successors will be chosen at the Sept. 17 meeting.

This August Weather Speeds Up Activity In Cornfield 'Factory'

Have you ever seen a factory in an Illinois cornfield? Most everyone has, although the factories may have gone unrecognized.

Every corn plant can be considered a complex factory, even more complicated than the largest automobile assembly line, according to University of Illinois agronomists.

Right now these corn factories are working at top speed. With the help of bright sunlight during hot August days, the plant factories are busy converting raw materials from the soil and air into the grain that will be harvested this fall.

The manufacturing process of the corn plant contains many secrets that plant scientists have not yet uncovered. But basically here is what is going on in these factories in Illinois cornfields.

The corn factory takes water and certain minerals from the soil, and carries them throughout the plant by a complicated piping system. In addition, carbon dioxide from the air and light energy from the sun are soaked up by the leaves. These raw materials give the corn manufacturing machinery which plant scientists call chloroplasts the necessary materials to work with.

Small and Powerful
Chloroplasts are tiny energy converters, so small that nearly 10,000 of them could be placed side by side between the inch markings of a ruler. They take the basic raw materials, and by a process not entirely understood turn out certain chemical compounds. These compounds, including sugars and amino acids, are the building blocks of the corn grain.

Illinois agronomists point out that even though this manufacturing process is remarkable in itself, the corn factory does even more. It is able to maintain its own machinery and to replace that machinery when it is worn out, all without interrupting the manufacturing process.

To complete this process, the sugars and amino acids produced by the chloroplasts are carried by the sap stream throughout the assembly line of the corn factory. There they are put together and become the finished carbohydrates, fats, and proteins in the corn grain now developing or filling on the cob. Excess water is transpired, or given off as vapor from the leaves and other plant surfaces.

Anything Can Happen
In a process as complicated as this, the agronomists warn that many things can go wrong. The plants may not be able to get sufficient nutrients from the soil to use as raw materials, or they may be damaged by insects, diseases or severe weather.

During dry years the water supply, which makes up about 90 per cent of the growing corn plant, may be short. The corn factory can work at top speed to produce top yields only if there is no shortage of any of these raw

Soil Testing Laboratory A Busy Place

Morgan county farmers are showing more interest in the condition of their soil than they have ever displayed.

Following a series of radio broadcasts over WLDS by Farm Adviser George A. Trull, the soil testing laboratory located in the basement of the Farm Bureau building has been swamped by samples. From the results of analysis the farmers will be advised how much limestone, phosphorus and potash to add to their fields for best results.

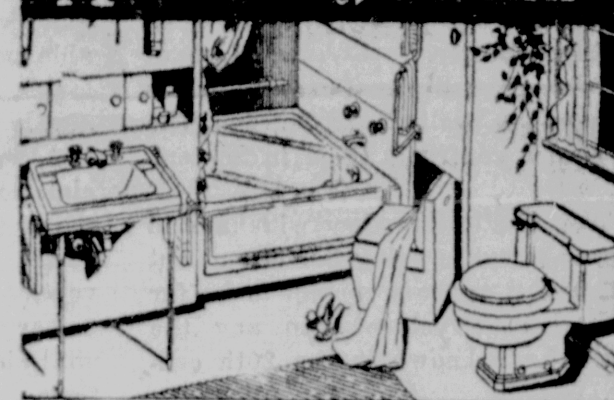

"This is the best time of the year to bring in your soil samples," the farm adviser says. The local testing station is run by Mrs. Rowena Enke, who received her training under A. U. Thor of the University of Illinois.

Others who wish to have their soil tested for these three elements are invited to see or call the farm adviser and he will tell them how to secure samples that will tell the actual chemical condition of the field.

One of the 12 exhibits at the seventh annual University of Illinois Dairy Day, Sept. 4 will feature results of a preliminary trial comparing the use of hybrid sorghum silage with corn silage for milk cows.

Despite near record June and July rainfall, corn and soybeans planted with minimum tillage are as tall, vigorous and productive as those with conventional soil preparation methods on the University of Illinois Agronomy South Farm.

Better Than Textbooks

Troy Price, teacher of economics and government at Washington, D.C., told a meeting of educators that he simply assigns his students at the beginning of the semester to "keep up with the news." He urges them to follow action taken on issues at the world, national, and community levels and puts clippings on the bulletin board to assist him. Quizzes are used to check on whether they are keeping up.

Miss Edith E. Starratt, Schenectady, N.Y., asks students to take newspapers to the class the first few weeks of the course, at which news-gathering methods and newspaper structure are discussed.

Another teacher at the same meeting told of requiring a newspaper to be read, instead of a book, in a social studies course for seniors.

These eastern educators, like many here in Illinois, realize the importance of newspapers in modern education. More schools in the Jacksonville area are making regular use of newspapers each year, either in classrooms or libraries. The Jacksonville Journal and Courier go regularly throughout the school year to 40 high school libraries, where they are read by a large number of students and faculty members.

Several world dramas are in the news daily, that well-informed people would not want to miss. The stand of the United States and other freedom-loving countries against Communism; scientific efforts and achievements involving outer space; the historic school integration decisions, and other stories present tomorrow's history today.

Newspapers record events of the nation and world with crispness and freshness lacking in textbooks. Most students find reading newspapers a pleasure, while at the same time they absorb much information almost without effort. Newspapers have attained the same place of prominence in schools as they have in homes.

French Face Vital Test

When the French vote Sept. 28 on whether or not to adopt sweeping constitutional reforms, it will be their test far more than it will be Premier Charles de Gaulle's.

At his coming to power in June, it was widely said of De Gaulle that he would stand or fall on the issues of constitutional reform and a solution of the crippling Algerian crisis.

But this is really looking at things through the wrong end of the glass. The French turned to De Gaulle, not he to them.

He accepted the assignment as evidence that a spirit of desperation was upon the French. He assumed, quite plausibly, that they were ready for drastic measures, since the alternatives seemed to be a kind of hopeless, muddling chaos or a swift stroke of rebellion that might ultimately put the Communists in power.

France's call for De Gaulle was really only a preliminary decision. The big choice confronts them in September.

The constitution they will have to take or reject is being hammered out now, and it appears certain to be far stronger in structure than any the French have known in the 20th century.

Knowing this is their only chance to modify its terms, the forces in France which traditionally counsel division and weakness in government are battling tirelessly to soften the new document. But this far De Gaulle has stoutly resisted debilitating changes.

Under provisions which seem likely to stand up until voting time, the power of the French president (now largely a figurehead) would be greatly enhanced, and that of parliament correspondingly reduced. The two branches of government would be sharply separated. And in times of danger to the nation, the president could take full powers of action unto himself upon his own discretion.

This is pretty heady medicine for the French, who have so long been committed to the notion that inaction and delay somehow constitute desirable policy. Whether they will swallow it, no one dares predict with assurance.

As they come up against their crucial moment, it will not be they alone whose future is entangled in the outcome. The full vigor of France's inventive spirit and the full strength and power of its people and resources are a vital element in the free family of nations.

Soviets' Dangerous Game

If reports are true that Russia intends to give Red China nuclear weapons, that could rank with the most unwelcome news of 1958.

It is bad enough that the Soviet Union has these weapons. Yet there is a feeling in many quarters that the Kremlin understands the great peril for all mankind that lies in a nuclear war.

Up to now, the Communist Chinese have given no sign that they, too, have this understanding.

For all their long history as an active force in China, they are brash, militant newcomers to the realm of real power. Their attitudes are harsh, militaristic, contemptuous of risk to humanity.

Again and again they have been credited with exerting a stiffening influence upon Russia's Khrushchev when he has veered away from the rigid ruthlessness of Stalinism.

In truth, Red China's devotion to the uncompromising brutality of Stalin is complete. And it has shown more than a little willingness to practice these dark arts of the aggressor throughout the whole of Southeast Asia.

No nation on earth, therefore, is probably less qualified than Red China for the awesome responsibility of possessing nuclear arms.

When and if that possession becomes a fact, the world's sense of peril must inevitably be immensely increased.

For Russia's own salvation as well as all the world's, Khrushchev ought to think many times before handing the nuclear tinder box to a Red China that likes to play with matches.

Larsen —(NEA)— They were watching TV show Top Dollar in the home of Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson the other evening. Prizes are given to persons holding bills with certain serial numbers announced on the show. And Mrs. Anderson asked her 17-year-old son Jerry why he wasn't checking the numbers on his money.

"Oh," he replied, "I happened to win they'd just said that dad made the bill for me."

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, in a speech to the American Bar Association recently, came up with history's greatest understatement. He said: "The history of mankind has been marked by frequent disagreement."

"I Didn't Know that the First Family ever served submarine sandwiches," a White House photographer said to Mary Jane McCaffrey, Mamie's secretary, the other day. He was referring to those concoctions with a dozen ingredients served between two halves of a long loaf of bread.

"Of course we don't," Mary Jane replied indignantly. "Oh, I don't mean the Eisenhowers, I mean the Lincolns," the photographer explained.

He pointed to a long oval dish which would have done very nicely as a submarine sandwich plate. It was among the Lincoln group in an exhibit of china from past presidents which Mamie had set up in the White House.

Mrs. Eisenhower is trying to complete the Executive Mansion collection of china used by presidents. She has found that there are no plates from Andrew Johnson, William Howard Taft, Warren G. Harding, Calvin Coolidge or Herbert Hoover.

Last month, two days after the Weather Bureau predicted an extended period of rain for the nearby Atlantic beach area, Norm Hansen, a bureau official, suddenly announced he was taking five days of his vacation and going to the beach.

"You enjoy rainy vacations?" a friend asked.

"No," Norm replied. "I just got a hunch it won't rain for the next five days."

Turned out Norm was right. He had the only five consecutive days in July without rain at the beach.

At the Big Senate probe of labor racketeering the former wife of one of teamster boss Jimmy Hoffa's pals was testifying to all sorts of terrible things which she said her ex-mate had done.

"That's what you get for letting your wife know what you're doing," the man sitting next to Hoffa grunted.

"That's why I don't tell my wife nothing," Hoffa replied.

The strain of the session began to show just before the 85th Congress quit. For example a newsletter from the office of Rep. Dick Bolling of Kansas City reported: "The newest addition to the Bolling household is a cute new puppy—as yet unnamed—but obviously a little of this and a little of that."

And a statement inserted in the Congressional Record by Rep. Ed Willis of Louisiana said: "Mr. Speaker, more than 100 Yambassadors from Louisiana have been in Washington this week spreading the fame of Louisiana Yams."

A similar tour, sponsored by the Louisiana Yambassador Association is conducted each year.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Little Rock school board wants the Supreme Court to delay integration at Central High 2½ years because of the trouble integration has caused. But the board hasn't taken the obvious steps itself to end the trouble.

That's the Eisenhower administration's argument, as expressed through the Justice Department's Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin. He told the court Thursday the trouble-makers in Little Rock are limited in number but that:

1. The board could have but did not seek a federal court injunction in Little Rock to stop any outsiders from interfering with the school's orderly integration. Violation of such an injunction could mean jail.

2. The board could have expelled the students causing trouble inside the school. Rankin said only about 25 of them took part in sluggings, spitings and name-calling—but bounced only two.

Rankin joined Thurgood Marshall, lawyer for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, in asking the court to refuse the 2½-year delay and order integration resumed immediately. Integration in Central High started last year.

The two men argued that to delay integration because of the trouble-makers would be like an invitation to any group, which disliked a court order anywhere, to block it by violence.

The most of the board's lawyer—Richard C. Butler—could say was that continued integration at Central High would mean more trouble, the return of federal troops and interference with Little Rock's education program.

This didn't seem to impress Chief Justice Warren, who asked Butler: "Can we afford to defer a program of this kind merely because there are elements in a community that will commit violence to prevent it from going into effect?"

It seems like a good guess the court will turn down the board's delay before the school board sought a delay there was no evidence it had asked the help of any state or city officials to cope with the disturbances of which it complained.

In its special session Thursday, the court heard arguments from all sides but postponed a decision. Here is a brief explanation of the legal situation which by now is getting complicated:

Before Central High's opening last year, the board had prepared a plan for integration. The school superintendent thought it could be carried out peacefully. This satisfied Federal Dist. Judge Ronald Davies, who ordered integration to begin last September.

But then came the mob violence which kept the Negro children out of Central High. President Eisenhower sent in federal troops to see that Davies' order was carried out by holding the mob in check and getting the children to school.

The troops remained throughout the school year and the Negroes went to classes. But tension increased. There were unpleasant incidents inside the school between the white and Negro students.

In June the board went to another federal judge—this time Harry J. Lemley—and asked him to set aside Davies' order and postpone integration. Lemley agreed and ordered integration delayed 2½ years.

Then the NAACP moved in. It asked the next higher court, the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis, to overrule Lemley and order integration continued when Central High opened this September. The Circuit Court did. The next step was up to the board.

There was one more court, the Supreme Court, to which it could appeal. This required time. To give the board the needed time, the Circuit Court held up on its own order to continue integration by granting what's called a stay.

The next move was up to the NAACP. It asked the Supreme Court—before the board could file its appeal—to set aside the Circuit Court's stay order and put into effect the Circuit Court's order that integration must be continued.

Thursday the Supreme Court handed down no decision. Instead, it told the board to file its appeal by Sept. 8 and that the court would hear more arguments Sept. 11.

This was a hurry-up move by the Supreme Court to get to a decision before Central High starts its fall term. Thus, by acting on the appeal, the court can clear up the whole business on or soon after Sept. 11.

Children Need Lessons in Sidewalk Traffic Manners

"Won't you please say something to parents about teaching their youngsters to watch out for older folks?" writes Mrs. H. L. "Mother, who is 75, has been very proud of the fact that she could go downtown alone. But she hadn't bargained on this sort of catastrophe."

"She was walking near our city's Public Square when two teenage girls, apparently trying to take a bus, ran into her. They knocked her down."

"They didn't even stop to see whether they had hurt her. They ran right on. Well, they HAD hurt her. Her ankle was broken. Fortunately, passersby weren't as unhelpful as those youngsters."

"Kind persons called police, who took Mother to the hospital. She has a cast on her leg now. It will be a long time before she can go downtown."

"Maybe she will never again want to try it alone, after what happened to her. All because of some unthinking youngsters who didn't mean to harm anybody—but did."

Mrs. H. L. presents a problem that you and I CAN do something about. We can tell the teen-ager graphically what may result when he runs recklessly on a crowded sidewalk.

Even the toddler riding his tricycle should be taught courtesy to "grandmas" and "grandpas." One older woman showed me a painful leg bruise she suffered when a youngster suddenly rammed his vehicle into her.

The bigger bike-riders must exercise even more caution in areas where older people are walking. A sudden warning bell when a bike is almost on top of an elderly person is no answer to the problem.

Why not take on a personal campaign to help keep golden-agers safe on the streets? Your "plugs" for courtesy and kindness may spare some older person much physical and mental anguish.

Q—Are parents eligible to receive old-age and survivors' insurance benefits?—M.R.S.

A—Dependent parents (aged 62 for the mother, 65 for the father) are eligible for these, if the fully insured worker leaves no widow, dependent widower or child who could ever become entitled to benefits. The parents must file proof of dependency within two years of the death.

Q—The welfare state is a far departure from the notion that government is best that governs least." It is the conception and practice of the use of legislation and governmental agencies to promote social welfare.

It has concerned such matters as child labor, minimum wages, relief in unemployment, housing and price regulation. One of its largest areas has been in Social Security for the aged, which is linked in with an immense development of taxation.

The critics of the welfare state associate, or identify, Christianity with "free enterprise."

Theoretically there is some justice for the association of Christianity and free enterprise. If all men were practicing Christians, in a society in which St. Paul's ideal of every man bearing his own burden, and all men bearing one another's burdens (Galatians 6), the mass of laws, restraints and controls now operating would be unnecessary.

But we are not living in that sort of society. On the contrary, multitudes of people, high and low, utterly disregard moral and spiritual law and human rights where their interests are concerned.

The critics of the welfare state seem to have forgotten a great deal about conditions of a comparatively few years ago.

It would, of course, be absurd to suggest that everything that has happened in the welfare state is defensive. On the contrary, a great deal has been a pure over-extension of bureaucracy, the argument.

Only pitcher in World Series baseball history to score victories in both leagues was undefeated Jack Coombs. He won four for the Athletics in 1910-1911, and one for the Dodgers in 1916.

New Boy in School

By Ray Broekel

Chapter 2: Lennie Pulls Surprise

The coach wonders why the new boy in school hasn't tried out for the baseball team.

"Perhaps no one asked him, Mr. Elliott."

"Well, I'll do just that right now," said Mr. Elliott.

That afternoon Lennie turned out for baseball practice. The other boys were playing catch while waiting for Mr. Elliott. They were paired off in two's Lennie stood by himself until Gilbert Robertson came out of the gym.

Gilbert looked around and saw that the only one not playing catch was Lennie. "I guess you and I will have to lose a few," he said slowly to Lennie.

"Okay, fellows," sang out Mr. Elliott as he arrived on the field. Today we're going to have a practice game.

He read off the line-ups for the opposing teams. A number of the boys were quite surprised when Lennie Biggs was announced as one of the pitchers.

As Lennie took the mound his catcher walked out to him. "Now remember," the catcher said, "One finger means the fast ball, two fingers the curve, and three fingers a pitch-out. Got that?"

Lennie nodded his head.

The practice game began.

Fine Pitcher

Mr. Elliott could see, as the game progressed, that Lennie would make a fine pitcher for his team, but the other players on the field didn't play their best ball behind him.

After practice that day he questioned a few of his players about it, and all of them answered his question in about the same way— "Oh, I guess Lennie's all right, but he's just too quiet and shy."

The baseball season progressed and the school team was going along in fine shape. They had won their first four games.

Today's game was with Pepperhill School. They were in second place.

Mr. Elliott started Tom Curtis on the mound, and he pitched fine ball until the third inning when a line drive struck him on the shin bone.

Tom Is Hurt

Mr. Elliott rushed out to the pitcher's mound to check on the injury.

Tom, with tears of pain in his eyes, had to be escorted from the field.

Mr. Elliott then motioned for Lennie Biggs to go out and pitch. The rest of the players felt quite badly about Tom's injury. They felt that even though they had a three to two lead, the quiet and shy Lennie wouldn't be able to hold down the Pepperhill batting order.

Lennie's Surprise

However, as the game progressed, the players on the field became quite enthusiastic. Lennie was pitching quiet a game. Sincerely,

Let's Go Birding

FLOCKS OF BIRDS

By Emma Mae Leonhard

People are different: some are primarily interested in people; some, in cars; some, in sports; some, in the world of natural phenomena.

There are a few who find that birds are one of their main interests. Whether you happen to be in this last class or not, you probably have noticed birds; there seem to be so many of them.

From mid-August the number of birds has been increasing. Purple Martins have been flocking together, young and old. However, they are not the only flocks at this time of year.

On telephone wires or fence wires stretch out lines of swallows particularly toward evening. Barn Swallows, Tree Swallows, Bank Swallows, and rarely the Cliff Swallow. In fact, since the Purple Martin also belongs to the swallow family, swallows seem to have taken over our bird world. Even when they are gathering insects over ponds, lakes, or damp meadows, they tend to stay in flocks.

High in the sky all summer long we have seen Chimney Swifts circling and diving in small flocks. They were also dining on the insects in the sky. Now they are gathering in larger flocks and sometimes seem to fill the sky with their aerial pranks and chattering calls. In trees and shrubs and weed-filled meadows are flocking both Starlings and Grackles. Marshes and lowlands are filled with Red-winged Blackbirds.

Separating Blackish Birds

So filled is our world with these flocks of black or very dark birds that we often think of them as just black birds. However, if you are new to bird watching, you should not find it too difficult to separate the martins from the other swallows or from the swifts.

Martins are larger. Their tails are definite and somewhat forked; their wings are triangular. Swifts seem to have no tails, and their long, curved wings are attached to a cigar-shaped body.

Furthermore, Purple Martins spend more of their time in the air than do Grackles, Red-wings, and Starlings. Also you should not have too much difficulty in distinguishing between the last three kinds.

Starlings have short tails and spend a lot of their time walking on the ground. Grackles have long wedge-shaped tails with rounded ends, prominent field marks whether the birds are flying or are perched.

Red-wings, with their moderately long tails, should give you no trouble: for the males carry their red, orange, and tawny epaulettes, and the females are quite brownish, with heavily striped breast and flanks.

There are other distinguishing marks between these dark birds in great flocks, like the different techniques used in flight, or the varying shapes and sizes of bills. Continued observation and study of the birds can gradually help you to feel more secure in your identification.

Maybe you would rather just see flocks of birds. Perhaps you will never feel satisfied until you can identify the individual birds in the flocks.

Whatever your temperament, you should have plenty of material with which to work. However, the time is short, for most of these birds will soon be leaving for the South.

EXPENSES HIGH

HEATHSVILLE, Va. (AP)—The Northumberland county school board decided to dispose of a two-room building damaged by fire.

The high bid was $50. Sale costs included $20 for attorney fees, $10 for auctioneer, $14 to advertise the sale. Net return to board $6.

POLE CAT—Sammy, the fireman's pet, slides down the brass pole at the first "Bang" of the alarm bell at Fire Station 6, Long Beach, Calif. A homeless stray, the cat was adopted by the station crew a year ago and has developed into a top-notch "fire cat."

Lennie's Surprise

However, as the game progressed, the players on the field became quite enthusiastic. Lennie was pitching quiet a game. Sincerely,

Katie Visits The Library

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

Part 2: Long Story

Katie tried to explain that she wanted a certain book but her voice was not any stronger than her fingers and the foot steps coming nearer were very loud.

"Why don't you take a book you can reach?" the official impatiently asked, while Katie held one hand on the brown cover.

"That one will last a whole week," she begged. The other stories are all too short."

A long arm with strong fingers grasped the book and carried it to the desk while Katie put the chair away and followed noiselessly. Even the throwing face did not matter any more, her card was properly marked and the great toe pushed into her hands. It was hers to take home!

Book of Marvels

All that week there were pleasant pages each with numbers of little pictures and matching paragraphs about strange animals and things. A book of marvels that really lasted.

The time came when a great new library with trained librarians and many shelves of bright books took the place of that one long room. The official now went about without a frown for he had a special room all his own with custodian clearly lettered on the door never entered by small readers.

Katie came in and out each week and often sat in the friendly chair that had once so staunchly tried to be a stepladder for her need. But she did not try to carry the heavy book any more; she had one at home just like it, a great brown Dictionary.

BATTLEFRONT ARTIST

MADISON Wis. (AP)—A Madison garage has yielded a collection of original battlefield sketches and field note books of a once widely-known Civil War artist, Raymond Simplot, whose grandfather, Alexander Simplot, sketched war scenes for Harper's Weekly magazine, found the material and turned it over to the Wisconsin Historical Society.

The sketches were made between April, 1861, and Jan. 10, 1863, of events in the war along the Mississippi River.

We'll Go Roaming

By Melma Hucksby Ewert

Walk With Granddaddy

Huck and Jeannie stopped beneath the old walnut tree and waited for Granddaddy to catch up. Granddaddy, Jeannie and Huck stood under its wire spread arms for a while.

Up, away up they looked along its gnarled old trunk. Up and up through its lace-leaved branches, up and up through lace-leaf-patterns, to the bright patches of blue sky beyond its frond-like leaves.

"I feel just like a fairy, standing under a fern," declared Jeannie. "I do too," said Granddaddy.

"I do too," added Huck.

Let's Go Roaming

Every day in Jacksonville When Huckle and Jeannie Awoke from their naps, Granddaddy would say, "Let's go roaming."

"We'll roam and roam," Granddaddy would state, "Until we come To the old grey barn And the wild red plum."

"Yes, sir, Granddaddy, yes, sir," the children would answer him in glee.

And away they'd go Hand in hand To see Granddaddy's enchanted land.

That first afternoon They roamed clear to the twin pine trees.

Two Christmas Trees left to grow Until they almost touch the sky In Granddaddy's little forest.

There is a strong board seat Nailed between them, And all beneath it soft pine needles.

"Would you two like to rest? Granddaddy said.

So Jeannie and Huckle Sit by each other, Proud as can be: They are sister and brother.

Near the twin trees is The Red-Bud tree. Rioting this June in Roseate bloom.

Color tinged branches touching the grass, Beneath it is a round room, all papered.

With gal flowered wall-paper, Huckle and Jeannie-crawled in, "Let's make a playhouse here tomorrow," Jeannie said to Huckle. Granddaddy pushed aside two branches, And through this doorway the two came out Into the sunshine again.

Walking away Granddaddy paused to look back, The children did too. "It's a lovely, lovely tree," said Jeannie.

"Just like a big bouquet," said Huckle. Granddaddy smiled down at them, "I dearly love God's big bouquet! I love My Little Blossoms. In a different way!"

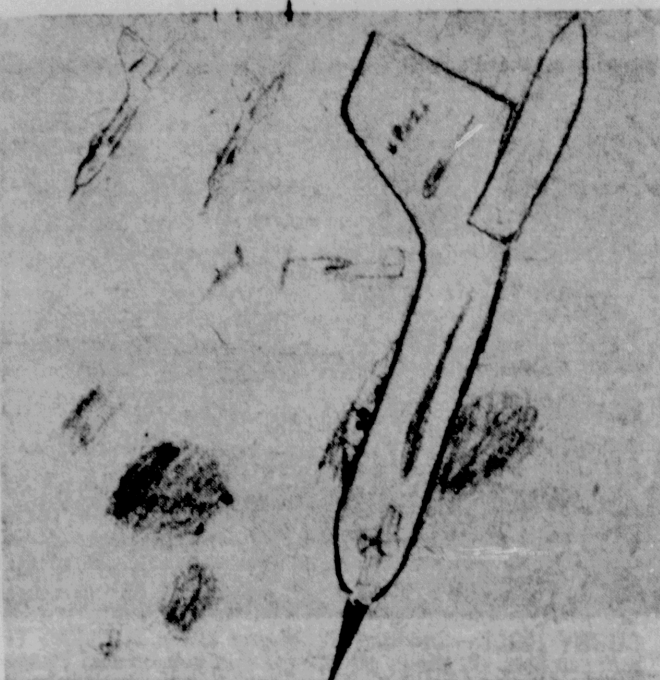

The children knew that Granddaddy meant they were his little blossoms. Very happy and proud they began to skip and skirl toward the big house and Grandmother, for it was near supper time.

ROPE THAT DEER

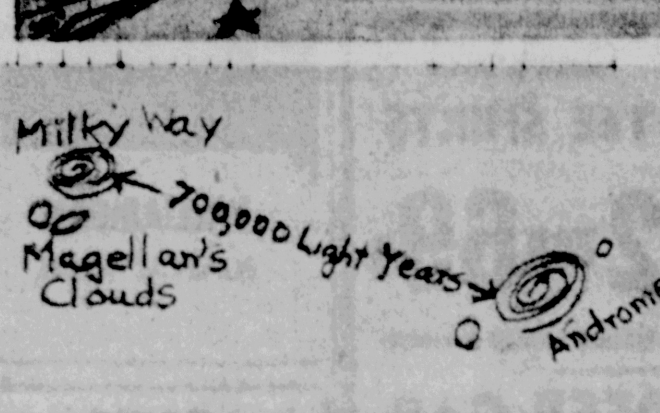

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—It may never catch on as a deer-hunting tactic but John Scott, poultry farmer near Lincoln, captured a full grown mule deer with a lariat.

After lassoing the animal which had wandered onto his farm Scott and a companion threw the deer to the ground and tied it up in the manner of a calf ready for branding. In short order, the deer became the newest addition to a Lincoln zoo.

MILKY WAY'S NEIGHBORS

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

The distances between the sun and its neighbors seem very unimportant compared to the distance between the Milky Way Galaxy and its neighbor galaxies.

The nearest galaxy to ours—the Milky Way Galaxy—is the Magellan Cloud Galaxy. It is only 75,000 light years away.

The next closest galaxy is the small Magellanic Cloud Galaxy. This is 85,000 light years away.

The two Magellanic Clouds are not spiral galaxies like our Milky Way Galaxy. They're actually rather shapeless clouds of stars.

The Andromeda galaxies are considerable smaller than the Milky Way Galaxy. As galaxies go, they are so close to the Milky Way Galaxy that they can be considered its companions.

There is a galaxy in the same group of fifteen galaxies to which the Milky Way Galaxy belongs that is almost the "splitting image" of it. This galaxy is the Great Andromeda Galaxy.

Andromeda Galaxy

The Great Andromeda Galaxy is a spiral galaxy like the Milky Way and it also has two small companion galaxies. These two companions are on opposite sides of the Andromeda Galaxy, rather than being both on the same side as the Magellanic Clouds are of the Milky Way.

Astronomers have found a hundred million galaxies that they can photograph. The most distant galaxies which can be identified with our present telescopes are about 500 million light years away.

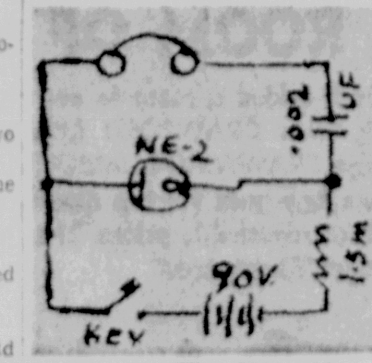

The galaxies show no signs of thinning out even at these great distances so there must be more on beyond.

Of course, even with the best possible telescope there would be some galaxies that couldn't be seen because the light from them simply hasn't had time to reach us since the creation of the universe. We estimate that the earth is only about three billion years old and we don't know how old the universe is.

Next we'll tell you about Power To Reach The Stars.

Here's How You Can Become A Radio Ham

By Joseph Smith

Part 2: The Way Up

As we said, most of you will want to start up the amateur radio ladder via the NOVICE ticket; so let's get started off right.

If you can attend a code and theory class given by qualified amateurs by all means do so for they can help you greatly in attaining the code speed and knowledge necessary to qualify for the NOVICE ticket.

Still, if you can't and are willing to work your ticket, you can study it at home. If you get stuck, then almost any amateur will help you along.

To start it would be wise and extremely helpful for your studies if you would get the following booklets published by the American Radio Relay League:

(1) "How to Become a Radio Amateur."

(2) "The Radio Amateur's License Manual."

(3) "Learning the Radio Telegraph Code."

(4) "Operating an Amateur Radio Station."

The first is an excellent source of elementary theory, the second contains sample questions similar to those appearing in the various license exams, the third is a course for studying the Code, and the last will help you to become an A-1 operator. The $1.50 investment will help you in later and more advanced exams as well.

Build Oscillator

Next you should build a simple and inexpensive code practice oscillator such as the one diagrammed here. Transistors also can be used in such oscillators.

When finished and working start at once working on that code. It takes time and concentrated study, but it is worth it.

Finally, how do you study? That's up to you, but the seriously-interested would-be ham will spend at least 15 minutes to a half hour each day say five days each week until he is ready to take the NOVICE EXAM.

MORRISON restrained himself and produced his badge. "This is a police affair. Mrs. Verhey's husband has met with an accident."

Her expression showed that his presence was distasteful, but she didn't want to tangle with the police. Neither did she show any interest in Verhey's condition.

"You may use my office, right over there. I'll send Mrs. Verhey to you."

Her words were proper, but what she meant was to get out of sight before you smell up the joint.

"Hello, Lieutenant," she said quietly. "You wished to see me?"

If Valerie had said anything about an accident, she was taking it easily.

"Yes, Mrs. Verhey. Will you sit down please?"

She pulled a chair closer to the desk and sat down with a kind of awkward grace. Her angular face was white and drawn, but skillful make-up had hidden most of the strain. He wondered in passing how long it took her to do her hair so it looked as if a comb never touched it.

"I suppose it's about Hal. Has he run away?"

"Why would you think that, Mrs. Verhey?"

Getting all the information you could, before giving the bad news, was dirty, but it was smart.

She drew a deep breath. "Hal had been in prison. He was convicted of robbery. He felt that once you knew he was an ex-convict you wouldn't bother looking for anyone else." She paused for a moment, then asked, "Have you caught him?"

Morrison watched her fold and unfold her hands, and hated the children, but now it was a nest of fear, tragedy and, hardest to understand, a kind of opportunism.

Heisen let herself into the quiet house. It didn't feel like home, but it was a place to be alone. She hung her coat in the closet with her usual care and began walking slowly about the room. So great was her fatigue that every step was like forcing her way through wet sand, but for some reason she was afraid to sit down. It seemed as if as long as she kept moving, there was no reality.

HE hadn't had to die. It was such a waste. Hal, for all his faults, had been a man, her man, and she had loved him.

Even when he had taken what seemed an easy way to relieve their troubles, when she had been sick, she hadn't blamed him. Stealing to help someone you love was wrong, but it was understandable.

It hadn't been Hal's fault that fear had eaten away his insides, until he felt he had to run like a frightened mouse. Not everyone was brave, just as not everyone was light, or dark. Few people had their lives complicated by being involved in a senseless murder. There must be many people who couldn't take such a situation. It wasn't just Hal.

She didn't know how long she cried, but finally the tears were spent.

Her head throbbed unmercifully, and she leaned it against the back of the chair. She was trying to make up her mind whether to go and get an aspirin or not, when she heard the back door open.

"Who's there?" she called.

There was a sound of someone bumping into something, the kitchen stool, no doubt.

"Who's there?" she called again, and was answered by a man's voice cursing about furniture being where it shouldn't be.

She rose from the chair and, clutching the neckline of her robe, stood waiting for whoever might come through the kitchen door.

After a weeks honeymoon in the Smoky Mountains, the newlyweds are at home at 1345 N. Water street in Decatur. Mrs. Olson attended the Bridgeport high school and graduated from Illinois State Normal University in 1956.

Mr. Olson is a graduate of Jacksonville High School in 1953. He served in the armed forces for three years before entering Illinois State Normal University, where he graduated in August. Both Mr. and Mrs. Olson will teach in the Decatur schools this year.

Chapin Sunbeams At Obert Home

CHAPIN—The Sunbeam class of the Chapin Christian church met Thursday evening, Aug. 21 at the home of Alma Obert with Ruth Six as assistant hostess.

The meeting opened with song, prayer and scripture reading. Roll call was answered by 12 members naming something worthwhile accomplished this summer.

The usual business was taken care of with the reading of the secretary and treasurer reports. The class decided to change their meeting date to the fourth Wednesday of each month. The next meeting will be a wienner roast for members and families at the home of Barbara Crewes.

Several articles and poems were read and contests enjoyed. Virginia Goodrich and Nancy Sidwell were prize winners.

The hostesses served refreshments. Several children were present.

Why does warm water cool a person more than cold water during the heat of summer? Cold water makes the blood vessels contract and holds the heat in the body. Warm water, however, does the opposite. Inside heat comes to the surface and leaves your body cooler. Hot water, however, is overstimulating and does little to relieve body heat.

OUTWARD TO THE STARS (11)—Re-entry

(1) As if the spaceman did not already have enough to contend with, the absence of a protective blanket of air in space will pose yet another problem—that of intense heat and cold. In orbit about the Earth, the side of a ship toward the Sun will be heated to hundreds of degrees; the side in shadow will feel intense subzero cold.

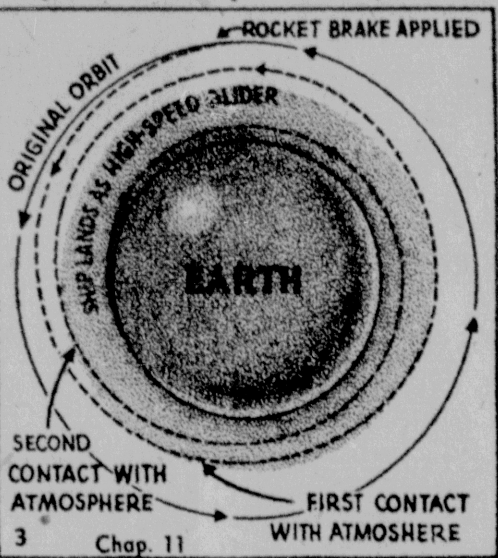

Permanent space stations may solve this problem by rotating, thus presenting each side briefly to the Sun, or by a system of light shutters, or by strips of light reflecting and/or absorbing paint. Adequate insulation and temperature controls in the interior will be a necessity. Information gained from the first satellites, the Vanguard and Explorer, show that livable interior temperatures were successfully maintained.

(2) Perhaps even more difficult than escaping the Earth is the task of returning to it. Traveling at an orbital velocity of some 18,000 miles per hour, a spaceship would burn up from friction upon entering the atmosphere. Ships like the X-15, due to be flown next year, will investigate, among other things, ways of safely returning to Earth.

Inset shows two miniature nose cones, before and after a heat test. Nose at right shows the destructive effects of extreme atmospheric friction generated at a speed of 4,500 miles per hour in a wind tunnel. The Army has announced that tests with its Thor missile have solved the re-entry problem, at least for a mouse passenger.

By Don Oakley and Ralph Lane

(3) Returning a satellite to Earth may involve a series of dips in and out of the atmosphere, gradually slowing the craft's speed. The ship would "skip glide" around the Earth on top of the atmosphere, alternately gliding into it at a shallow angle, pulling out into space to cool off, then entering it again. It would finally land as a high-speed glider.

Although the first manned satellite need not necessarily be a winged rocket, but possibly a nose cone capsule equipped with braking rockets and metal mesh parachutes, advanced satellites will probably employ the method shown above.

PITTSFIELD — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Kaylor, who have spent much time in Sarasota, Fla., recently, have sold their pretentious home on the south side of Route 36 a short distance west of Pittsfield, to Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Scoville, who have large farming interests on the Mississippi river bottoms near Rockport.

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—A University of Oklahoma professor telephoned police that the fender skirts on his car were missing. A short time later he called back and said for the officers to forget his complaint. He just learned that this year's model of his car didn't have fender skirts.

Grover Cleveland Signed Bill In 1894 Making Labor Day National Holiday

NEW YORK (AP) — The President's pen scratched a signature across the bottom of the page and in that instant the bill became law.

The date was June 28, 1894. The president was Grover Cleveland.

The bill set aside the first Monday in September as Labor Day, a legal national holiday honoring the American workman.

The workman had been agitating for a holiday all his own on a national scale ever since Peter J. McGuire, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, first suggested it 12 years before.

He got it at a time most inauspicious for labor.

Organized labor of today, with its nearly 18 million members and multimillion dollar treasuries, bears only basic resemblance to the embattled, sometimes secret unions of the year 1894.

Less than a million workers would admit union membership in that day, for sometimes the admission would cost the job. One of the unions' main concerns at the bargaining tables was simply survival.

It was a time of panic. We'd call it depression today. The bottom had fallen out of almost everything — economic in the middle of 1893. Recovery was out of sight, three years away.

In the first six months of panic, nearly 500 banks failed. More than 15,000 commercial firms closed their doors. Unemployment climbed to three million, highest in history to that point.

Armies of unemployed, led by Jacob S. Coxey and men named Kelly and Frye, were marching on Washington, seeking relief. Europeans were certain they were seeing the American republic end in revolution.

Coxey's "Army of the Commonweal of Christ," some 300 strong, reached Washington from Massillon, Ohio, in April and collapsed in farce when its leaders were arrested for walking on the grass of the White House lawn.

It was a time when industry was replacing farming on a basis for national economy and the farmers were fighting back; and the corporate giants of industry were welding enormous power, with the workers fighting back.

There was Populism — The People's Party — Born of the farmers' revolt and attractive to the workman with its promise that wealth belonged to those who produced it. Its presidential candidate James B. Weaver, had received 22 electoral votes in the 1892 election.

There were the dying Knights of Labor, a secret, fraternal experiment in federating the working man; and the 8-year-old American Federation of Labor, with cautious Sam Gompers' wary testing strength with the huge corporations.

There were the strikes. Coal miners in Tennessee, Alabama and Ohio. Ore miners in Colorado, Idaho, Railroad switchmen in Buffalo, N. Y. Tailors in New York City.

Around Pittsburgh, bitterness lingered in the memories of a steel strike two years before in Homestead, Pa., when strikers and a small army of Pinkerton detectives fought a 13-hour pitched battle with guns, clubs and stones on the banks of the Monongahela River.

And, at the very moment President Cleveland was signing the Labor Day bill, a dispute in the little town of Pullman, Ill., was growing swiftly into one of the bitterest strikes in American history.

The antagonists were the Pullman Palace Car Co. and the year-old, 150,000-member American Railway Union, founded and presided over by a skinny, balding, 39-year-old Indian named Eugene V. Debs.

Only a few days after the strike was called, rail transportation in the Middle West ground to a virtual standstill. Strikers clashed with non-strikers as the railroads tried to move trains under guard.

Before it was over, four companies of federal troops were patrolling in Chicago and a federal injunction had been issued forbidding any manner of interference with the movement of the U. S. mails — and most of the trains had mail cars.

The troops and the injunction made a socialist out of Debs, who went to jail for violating the injunction. Leaderless strikers began straggling back to work. Less than a month after it began, the Pullman strike was broken.

The American Railway Union, one of the largest of its time, never amounted to much after that.

Such was the state of labor in the year 1894, when Labor Day became a legal national holiday.

GO TO CHURCH

Dear Editor: Ahooh! This is the time of year when I have fewer really suffer. Ahooh!

If those who allow ragweeds to grow on their premises really understood how miserable the pollen makes so many people feel, surely ahooh! they would try to eliminate the weed.

A person with hay fever really does not have a fever but we feel worse than if we had a fever of 100 degrees. A bad cold in the head is small potatoes compared to a bad case of hay fever. Doctors claim that hay fever has no remedy but it would be even less hard to keep the ragweeds down within the city if something was causing pneumonia or typhoid health authorities would see that the condition was remedied at once.

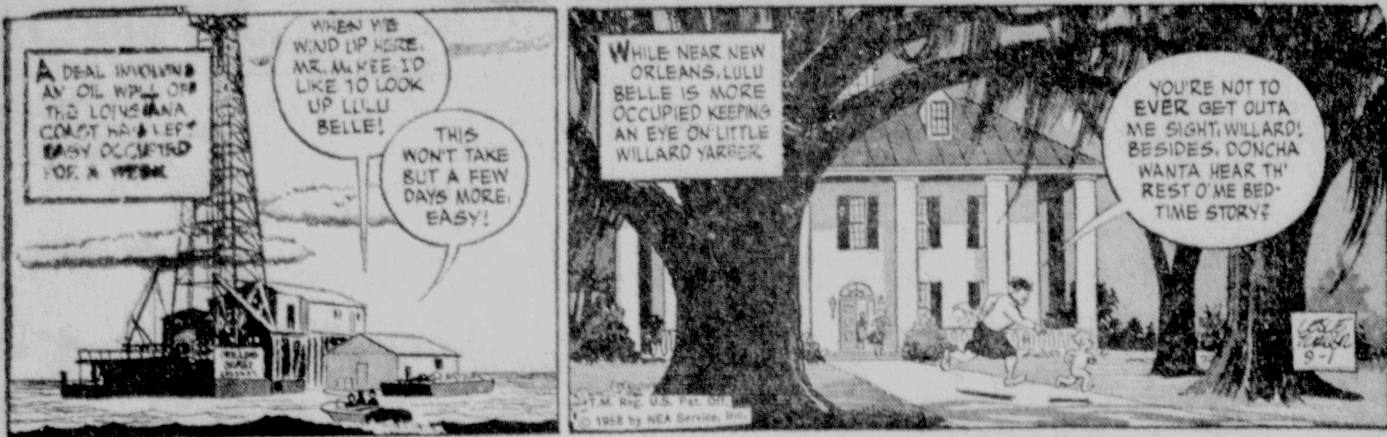

Doctors say no one dies of hay fever, but we all die and who can say that hay fever does not hasten that death. Some sufferers have watery eyes and a nose that runs like a wet map, while others develop dry eyes with burning, scratching lids, a dry nose that feels as light as a snare drum, a badly inflamed soft palate and a feeling more miserable than words can describe.

We hope everyone with a patch of ragweeds reads this and does something about it. Oh boy! Ahooh!

A Sufferer.
